D.C. Health Center

There's New Life At Old City Hall

By FRANK LaPIERRE

There is new life in the old Daly City City Hall at 75 Wellington Avenue.

It is called the "Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center."

As the center enters its second year, plans are being drafted to expand the facility to aid the city's sick and disabled.

Mending the ill is not all the center accomplishes; it provides social services in addition to medical aid.

The center started modestly two years ago as a storefront operation on Mission Street to fill a void in the community — that of providing medical treatment to the community's sick, elderly and low income citizens.

It since has expanded to marriage counseling; counseling parents who have children with learning and behavior problems; information and referral services for food stamps, welfare, Medi-Cal and employment.

These services are provided free, or at reduced cost, to all persons.

The "secret of success" of the center is that no one is refused.

The staff is bi-lingual and spans many ethnic groups — Indian, Spanish, Black, Chinese and Filipino.

A new dental office with five chairs, and hopes of obtaining the services of dental technicians and doctors from local universities, is almost ready on the main floor of the two-story brick building.

Six years ago, City Clerk Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf had her office in the large room.

Across the hall from the dental office, where the city's police department was once housed, are waiting rooms and examination rooms.

Each examination room is painted in pastels. "We're trying to get away from the standard hospital white," Dorothy Stopp, mental health educator, explained during a recent tour of the facility.

The staff includes five workers from the Neighborhood Youth Corps, volunteers from the community and paid staff, all under the leadership of director Chuck Keaty.

Dr. Ray Donovan, the center's medical director, said 10 doctors rotate their hours to provide staffing for the center.

There are 32 paid members of the center's staff at the present time.

The center had applied for $22.000 and the city agreed to fund $5.000. The county provided $28.000 in revenue sharing funds to Guadalupe Health Center this month.

In the building's basement the outdated jail facilities were once housed along with the police squad room.

Now, eight community workers (six mental health and two community workers) share office space.

Soon the area will be carpeted, thanks to United Airlines which provided carpeting taken from several of their aircraft undergoing modernization.

From this basement office, volunteers and paid staff will conduct a survey of the city's elderly and their needs.

Data gathered as a result of the survey will be used for service development for this group of citizens, a spokesman said.

To date, 2198 families are enrolled in programs.

Using the scale of 3.2 persons per family, the center boasts an enrollment of some 7,000 persons — many from the immediate area around the center.

But there are still "many persons around" who have not applied for assistance — both medical and social.

These are the people the center hopes will be encouraged to seek aid in the months to come.

The center is growing by leaps and bounds.

An average of 108 new families, or 378 persons, are being helped each month, according to Esther Talavera, chairwoman of the center.

And while federal funds have been cut off in some areas, the staff at the center maintains an optimistic outlook for the future.

Greenwood Claims:

Audit Suggestions Would Boost Costs

If recommendations of the State Department of Finance audit team which recently conducted a special audit of the Jefferson Elementary School District are "practiced to the extreme" it would impede the district's operation and increase costs.

This was the conclusion of JESD Superintendent Frank L. Greenwood in his point by point rebuttal to the 21-page audit report.

Greenwood said much of the highly critical audit report, conducted during a three month period earlier this year, was nothing more than the personal opinions of the auditors and the departments they represent.

The superintendent, whose answer to the report was contained in a 20 page release handed over without comment, said the audit team members lacked understanding of the daily routine of running a school district and "they are very naive."

Instead of criticizing the JESD for what the auditors called "slipshod record keeping" the team, led by Senior Auditor Robert Hamric, should also have pointed up the good business practices of the district, Greenwood felt.

Hamric's report said that the district had "split" purchase orders to circumvent advertising for bids as required by the State Education Code.

Greenwood rejected the innuendo that bids had been intentionally split and said that "until such time as the district acquires adequate central warehouse storage and establishes a perpetual inventory system, or a stores account, purchases of less than $5.000 and $8.000 will be suspect."

The Education Code stipulates that estimates for services over $5.000 and-or material costs over $8.000 must go to bid and the distric award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder.

According to the audit report, the district split a $43.000 order into 12 separate orders — all to the same vendor and delivered to the same point of origin — as an example of how the JESD had intentionally circumvented the law.

Greenwood disputed this allegation, noting the "auditor's concerns stem from the very narrowest interpretation ever given to California Education Code Section 15953.

"That section states that three written quotations must be obtained on services of less than $5,000 and supplies valued at less than $8.000. If this were to become the unalterable practice, it would be impossible to purchase a package of paper clips without getting written quotations," Greenwood said.

He said if the district decided to implement this practice it would have to hire a purchasing agent, at an annual salary of some $20.000, and a full time secretary to coordinate purchasing practices "and compile the oceans of supporting documents desired by the auditors."

An example given by the auditors was the $43.000 purchase of supplies from H. S. Crocker Company, handled in 12 purchase orders.

Greenwood said the orders were for school supplies and were purchased off the San Mateo County bid list.

"In short, the county bids for all school districts and the school districts are free to utilize those prices in lieu of going to bid. This was done," he said.

He said the procedure was considered a legal transaction under state law "and the Board has authorized the same practice for the current year."

He cited other justifications where the auditors recommended the work go to bid, but where the administration determined three written quotations were sufficient to comply with the law.

In fact, Greenwood replied, a County Schools Office bulletin of November 25, 1970 explained that where combined services and materials did not exceed $13.000 it was permissable to ask only for written quotations.

This was done in the case of construction of a fire wall at Fernando Rivera School.

Contract for the fire wall was made on August 23, 1972 to the H. L. Falk Company.

But on August 28, 1972 a conflicting memorandum from the county schools office was issued.

This bulletin, issued by J. Russell Kent, Superintendent of Schools, informed districts they must go to bid on such orders.

In light of this turnabout, and because the bid had already been let, Greenwood contacted San Mateo County Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson's office.

Deputy L. M. Summey informed Greenwood that inasmuch as both parties had "acted in good faith," work should proceed, according to the Superintendent.

"If the Board or Administration acted marginally on the law, it was with the best legal advice available to them and under the direction of the district attorney and County Schools Office," Greenwood said.

During the period between August and October, 1972 the auditors cited four examples of items added to purchase orders after the Board of Trustees had approved them. The amounts were between $15 and $60, the audit report disclosed.

During the same period, Greenwood said, the district issued 573 purchase orders amounting to $183,420 "about which no comment was made."

Greenwood said he mentioned this fact "only to put comments (by auditors) in proper perspective."

He likewise turned to the district attorney's office in justifying the continued use of El Mar Transit lines without going to bid as recommended by the audit report.

Greenwood said Deputy D. A. James W. Foley in February 1969 said the district acted properly in letting the El Mar Contract.

"Again the board acted on advice of council; council was familiar with the circumstances involved," Greenwood said.

In commenting on the auditors' findings, regarding travel allowances and failure to substantiate meal costs, Greenwood said the auditors found only two instances where the maximum allowance of $35 was exceeded. They did not mention that "hundreds of expense vouchers did not," he said.

A review of one complete year, but Greenwood does not specify which year, revealed the district is relatively low in expenditures — with meals and tips amounting to some $15 per day and hotel accommodations under $20.

Greenwood said the auditors slapped the district for not substantiating expenditures and pointed out that the district's documentation of expenses "exceeds that required by the State . . . for their employes and higher officials."

The superintendent also noted district travel expenses are far lower today than they were when he took office eight years ago.

Sanitation Study

Daly City Agrees To Split Costs

Daly City has agreed to split the cost of a $30.000 study to determine what is needed to carry the city's sewage and rainstorm waters out to sea and stop flooding in low-lying areas.

City Manager David Rowe said the city had planned to conduct the study itself in about two years. However, officials of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District want the study made immediately.

"Because they want this study done right now — instead of waiting two years — the city will get a price break," Rowe told the council Monday.

Instead of footing the entire $30.000 bill, Daly City will pay $12.000 and the district the remainder, Rowe said.

Three-fourths of the flow belongs to the city.

Each year the volume increases and the old Vista Grande tunnel, dug by shovels and mule teams around the turn of the century, can no longer handle this treated sewage and storm waters during the rainstorms.

The flooding that occurs during heavy rainfall "should be of concern to every citizen," Councilman Bernard Lycett, chairman of the NSMCSD and a director on the Bay Area Sewage Association, commented.

Sanitation Engineer Robert Bernicchi, of Rescources Management and Engineering, pointed out that debris often gets stuck in the tunnel and outfall line during heavy rains. When this happens the district must hire divers to clean out the lines. The cost of this service often runs as high as $15.000, Bernicchi said.

Lycett and Bernicchi informed the council that previous thinking had centered around either expanding the Vista Grande tunnel or building a new tunnel to the ocean under the Olympic Golf Course.

But new thinking has brought forth the idea of stretching the line from the Daly City treatment plant at Lake Merced Blvd. down John Muir Dr. to Fort Funston — some distance past where the present Vista Grande tunnel cuts underground to the ocean side.

In the distant future is the possibility of tying the North San Mateo County sewage outfall line to San Francisco's future line which will carry treated sewage six miles out to sea before discharging it near the Farralones.

In the past, the district sanitation district was slapped with warnings over pollution waste water running back onto beaches during heavy rain storm runoff periods.

Although this did not pose a health problem, Bernicchi said, the Water Pollution Board ordered the district to take steps to stop this occurence.

"The state says to clean this up, and we must comply," Bernicchi said in explaining why the study must be made now.

Stolen Cycle Operation in D.C.: Charge

Police have charged the owner of a Daly City motorcycle shop with possession of stolen property after they allegedly discovered several motorcycles on the premises with altered serial numbers.

John Anderson, 25, 832 Hamlock Ave., South San Francisco, co-owner of the Cycle Shop at 6524 Mission St., turned himself into South San Francisco police Monday shortly after a warrant was issued for his arrest, police said.

Arrested by a team of San Francisco and Daly City police at the Cycle Shop was Lawrence G. Code, 25, of 161 Miriam St., Daly City, a member of a motorcycle club that frequents the shop.

Code was charged with possession of stolen property and possessing a vehicle with obliterated serial numbers.

Police had been investigating the activities of the shop for some time, it was learned.

Investigations of several other suspects in the case are continuing, police said.

Up 6.9 Per Cent

D.C. City Council OKs Record Budget

Daly City has approved a record $9.7 million budget for 1973-74 — up 6.9 per cent over last year.

It will not be known until September if the property tax rate in the city will be affected by the increased budget.

City Manager David Rowe said that based on current assessed valuation figures, and using the formula prescribed in Senate Bill 90, the maximum rate increase would be only 1.5 per cent.

It was not expected that Daly City's assessed valuation will rise dramatically.

In money, the budget rose by some $650,000.

Much of this was due to increased employees' wages and fringe benefits, it was reported.

On the average, city employes were given increased pay of 5.9 per cent. The citywide employee pay range was from 5.8 to 6 per cent, according to Rowe.

Only police dispatchers received less — 4.2 per cent — because of increases in retirement benefits under a new system enacted by the 1972 legislature, it was explained.

The new retirement plan cost Daly City eight per cent and changed dispatchers from the "miscellaneous 'class'" to the police retirement system.

Rowe was given a $4.000 pay raise to $31.008.

Except for City Treasurer Tony Zidich — an elected post — all city employes and elected officials received a cost of living increase.

The 1973-74 budget authorizes a total of 367 full time employes.

Fireworks at Tanforan Park

Tanforan Park Shopping Center will be the San Bruno site for a giant fireworks display tonight.

It will be the third year the City of San Bruno and Tanforan have co-sponsored the fireworks, which can be seen for miles around the Bay Area.

Festivities will begin at dusk. Tanforan is located at El Camino Real and Sneath Lane in San Bruno.

Millbrae Budget For Schools

A public hearing on the Millbrae School District's approximately $4.5 million budget for the school year 1973-74 is scheduled for Aug. 6, at Spring Valley School on Murchison Dr.

This was decided at Monday night's board meeting, when trustees welcomed the newly appointed member, Robert Garay. He has taken the seat vacated by Mrs. Doris M. Brown, who resigned after having served five years on the board.

Garay, having retired after 26 years with a governmental agency, is now a San Francisco busisessman. He and his wife, Laura Beatrice, have been Millbrae residents for about 12 years. Their sons, James and Phillip, attended local schools.

A commendatory letter, signed by State Supt. of Education Wilson Riles, was brought to the attention of the board, since it pointed out that the district has an exemplary mathematics program.

State Gets Part of Money In Assessed Valuation Hike

The State of California will grab about 15 per cent of the money San Mateo County could collect as a result of the unanticipated 10.17 per cent increase in county assessed valuation this year, County Manager M.D. Tarshes calculates.

Tarshes said that the county's financial obligation to the state in Medi-Cal contributions is based on assessed valuation.

When he originally prepared the proposed 1973-74 county budget, the county manager reported to the Board of Supervisors today, he anticipated that this year's county contribution to Medi-Cal would increase by $300,000.

Now, however, in view of the huge assessment boost, the increased contribution will be $607,108, equivalent to 3 cents on the tax rate, and making a total county Medi-Cal payment of $6,513,708.

"This is $607,000 of San Mateo County taxpayer's money going to the state, which already has a surplus," the county manager noted.

Furthermore, he said, it means that the board will have to consider this in calculating the amount of a tax rate reduction it has indicated it will grant in view of the unanticipated amount of the assessment increase.

It originally was anticipated that the county assessed valuation would increase by perhaps as much as 6 per cent. Instead, it has gone up by over 10 per cent.

The extra 4 per cent could bring in an additional $2 million, if the board levied the maximum $2.09 per $100 of assessed valuation tax rate. However, no matter what rate the board levies, the state still is going to take its full share on the total assessed valuation increase.

"It is a penalty on the taxpayer," Tarshes said.

Tarshes said that since the state instituted the assessed valuation formula for Medi-Cal contributions two years ago, the countys payments have increased (including this year) by nearly $1 million.

"I just don't know how complicated things can get," the county manager stated.

Asked by a reporter if, in view of the state monetary surplus and formulas which the state procures local tax funds,

Mary's Help Oil Stolen

An oil painting by artist Anton Jovick valued at $1.500 was stolen from the main corridor wall of Mary's Help Hospital where it was on display last Friday.

A spokesman for the hospital said the painting, titled "Dalmatian Peasant," was on loan from the Vickie Lavorini Gallery in San Francisco.

It depicted an old man smoking a pipe.

The painting was taken off the wall, frame and all, sometime during business hours, a spokesman for the hospital said.

No Fireworks at Bruno Downtown Meet

Anticipated fireworks, expected because of differing viewpoints on merchandising methods on San Bruno's downtown San Mateo Avenue, fizzled last night as planning commissioners put over action on a rezoning request until October 1.

The move gave the downtown beautification drive proponents the opportunity to hold several more meetings to promote their plans to upgrade the street, and hopefully sell the idea.

It also temporarily squelched the effort by some merchants and tenants on the 600 block to remove a previously imposed CBD central business district), which in essense says that only retail outlets are allowed for the street-level of stores fronting San Mateo Avenue.

The CBD was imposed initially in an effort to draw more retail business to the street. The 600 block consists primarily of bsuiness of a service, rather than retail nature. In all three (400, 500 and 600) blocks of San Mateo Avenue there are vacant stores.

Since its implementation, the CBD has been highly controversial as to its effectiveness. Finally, some of the merchants on the 600 block southt the rescinding of the ordinance. They contend that the restricted zoning is keeping the stores vacant.

On the other side, the beautification proponents say that the problem lies more than with a CBD restriction. They feel that with proper beautification of the street, there will be a drawing card for retail-oriented merchants.

The commissioners agreed that it would be only fair to put off any action on the rezoning request because of the concerted effort in the past few years to reach an agreeable method to beautify the street.

Chamber of Commerce Mgr. Gerald Chandler said that to do otherwise would "fragment the downtown district" and "jeopardize the improvement plan."

He contended that if the 600 block were allowed to leave the the CBD, the merchants on that block also would be a drastic error," said Chandler. "We'd lose the continuity of the street, and a chance to bring it back to (an equal with) other downtowns in the area."

Several merchants and owners of the 600 block agreed with this contention.

Josh Maule III, original co-chairman of the improvement committee, now with Graighead Realty, was the proponents' spokesman.

"This (improvement) project is so important to the entire city that to isolate one block would be unfortunate," he said.

"As one seriously involved, it would be premature to change the ordinance at this point. Maule was once a merchant on the street. The building he occupied in business with his father in the 500 block has been vacant for almost a year.

The main drive for the rezoning came from business executive Victor Brincat, property owner in the 600 block who says he's in the process of buying several other parcels in the block.

Brincat spoke briefly, saying he represents seven tenants, and saying the rezoning would be "the only way to survive" in the 600 block.

He also submitted a letter "on behalf of the majority of owners and tenants" on the block. In it he pointed out that those in the 600 block are not in favor of improvements because there is no parking, no money, many vacancies and most of the businesses are not retail oriented.

"Maybe this improvement will stimulate a little action," said Ken Chapman, 500 block businessman and a strong advocate of retention of the CBD.

State to Take Big Share Of S.M. Taxes

the people are getting a "snow job" from Sacramento, Tarshes replied:

"They're getting a hell of a snow job."

The county manager said that any tax rate increase which the Board of Supervisors grants will have "some depressing effect" on the amount of revenue sharing funds the county will receive next year, the reduction hasn't been determined.

"I don't know if it will be significant," he stated.

Tarshes said that the board could levy the full $2.09 tax rate and build up financial reserve and contingency funds.

"But I'm not suggesting this," he emphasized.

Revenue sharing allocations are based on a formula which includes not only the tax rate, but also considerations of population and the per capita wealth of the county. This means that the higher the population, the greater the tax effort and the lower the per capita income, the more that is allocated in revenue sharing.

It will be up to the board to determine, in view of increased state costs and loss of revenue sharing just how far it wants to proceed in tax reduction.

Boy's Condition Still Critical

The condition of Dennis Rodrigues, 13-year-old South San Francisco youth burned over 50 per cent of his body early last week, remains critical. He is in the burn unit of the St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco.

The youth, of 2495 Tara Lane, was burned when he, his 15-year-old brother and a 15-year-old uncle were apparently experimenting with duplicating fluid (ethel alcohol) and fire.

North County Bus Plan Due

The State Public Utilities Commission will hold a public hearing next Monday on an application by South San Francisco Transit Service to operate a bus service between Daly City and San Francisco International Airport.

The service would be by way of South San Francisco and San Bruno.

Examiner Martin Porter will conduct the hearing at the State Building, 350 McAllister St., San Francisco.

Harrowing Chase Nabs Pacifica Youth

A Pacifica youth was arrested following a harrowing 20-mile-long chase over Skyline Boulevard through heavy afternoon traffic at speeds topping 100 miles per hour yesterday.

The chase began at 2:27 pm., when San Bruno policeman Bob Timko spotted Mark Paganelli, 21, of Heathcliff Drive, Pacifica, on Longview Drive near Goodwin.

Paganelli was wanted in connection with the alleged bilking of a service station attendant out of $7 worth of gasoline.

According to the attendant at the Shell staton, corner of Skyline and Sharp Park Road, Paganelli drove off without paying his bill.

When Officer Timko tried to pull Paganelli over to the roadside to question him about the incident, he sped off, police said.

During the 20-minute chase, in and out of afternoon traffic along the busy thoroughfare, Paganelli allegedly tried to run Officer Timko's police car off the road several times by allowing him to pull alongside and then weaving into him.

Joining the chase were local and Highway Patrol ofifcers.

At 2:48, police succeeded in cutting Paganelli's car off as it sped along 19th Avenue in San Mateo City.

The youth was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, reckless driving and resisting arrest.

Seven Injured in Coastside Collision

Seven persons, including four members of a Moss Beach family, were injured in a Saturday crash on Half Moon Bay Road which sent one car careening 100 feet down an embankment.

Highway Patrolman John W. Lyons said the accident occurred one mile west of Skyline Boulevard when John H. Wallbrink, 67, of Palo Alto, attempted to steer his westbound car onto the south shoulder of the roadway after the engine stalled, causing a loss of power to the brakes.

What Wallbrink apparently didn't realize, the patrolman reported, is that the power brakes still were functional, but required increased pressure on the brake pedal to operate.

As the Palo Alto man's car crossed over the center line, it collided almost head-on with an oncoming car driven by Edward J. Anderson, 31, of 98 San Lucas Ave., Moss Beach. Following the impact, the Wallbrink vehicle went over the embankment.

Taken to Chope Community Hospital were Anderson, admitted with a fractured right knee and head cuts; his wife, Sheila, 29, admitted with a cut over the left eye and possible internal injuries; their son, Edward Jr., 9, treated for a shoulder injury, and a second son, Sean, 5, treated for facial cuts.

Wallbrink suffered chest bruises. His wife, Anna, 66, suffered a knee injury, and a passenger, Anna B. Wallbrink, 31, also of Palo Alto, suffered cuts of the hands and face. All three went to Stanford Hospital.

Dump Fire in Colma; Smog Agency Cites

Inspectors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Board today issued a citation against operators of the Colma dump following an hours-long fire which started shortly after midnight this morning.

The dump, located between the Serra and Serramonte shopping center, is owned by local businessmen headed by Roy Franzoia.

Inspector Tony Mirado of the BAAPB issued the citation to Franzoia about 7 this morning—some seven hours after the fire mysteriously broke out at the dump site.

Last month, another fire of undetermined origin broke out at a dump site behind Cypress Hills Golf Course shortly after midnight. That dump is also operated by the same group of businessmen, it was learned.

Mirado said it was the Colma dump's first fire in five years.

If the citation is upheld as a misdemeanor it could result in the dump operators paying a fine of $500, Mirado said.

Bruno Puts Off Referendum on Bayhill Dispute

The San Bruno City Council has put off until August 27 any decision as to the date for a special election concerning the fate of two 13-story office buildings in that city's Bayhill development. A referendum petition has forced a vote.

Council members voted unanimously on the motion by Councilman George Corey after a motion by Councilman John Barnard and second by Councilman Neil Christal to rescind the ordinance that allowed construction was defeated 3-2.

Corey's motion included the stipulation that an attempt would be made to hold the special election in conjunction with a general election (possibly Nov. 6) to save San Brunans some money on election costs.

In addition, the motion said the council will send a letter to the developer asking if he would be willing to pick up any additional costs the city might incur, if the election is held in conjunction with a general election.

City Atty. Joseph Galligan told the council it had three options. One would have been to repeal the ordinance that was approved on a 3-2 vote — Corey, Mayor Margaret Kozkowski and Councilman Tony Governale.

A second choice would have been to set a special election for either August 28 or September 4.

The third, which was the choice taken, gives the council the same options on August 27; that is, either repeal, set a special election, or hold an election in conjunction with a general election, according to Galligan.

In making his motion for rescinding the ordinance, Barnard said he was hoping the developer would be in the audience.

"When this many (petitions carried 3,038 names and the city clerk validated "at least 2,631)" are against it (the two office buildings) it (the referendum) stands an excellent chance of passing."

Barnard said he was hoping the developer would withdraw his request for two 13-story buildings.

Corey said if there is "no or little cost" involved in the election, "it would be a fair issue to put to the voters."

In a referendum-related matter, the council received a letter from H. J. Hustedt, manager, market analysis, regionl office of the U.S. Postal Service, saying an investigation will be made concerning anti-petition mailings made by the Citizens for Balanced Community Growth "and the charges that postal employes acted improperly."

This investigation has to do with a mailer that used the city clerk's office as a return address and left the implication to many that the city clerk was paying the return postage.

The group that obtained enough signatures to put the matter to a vote, meanwhile, celebrated that victory with a party Friday night at the Crystal Springs Realty office or Camino Plaza in San Bruno.

Sir Francis Drake

Sir Francis Passes Away

That swingin' Duck — Sir Francis Drake — is no more.

The sad word was received here.

The feathered friend to literally thousands of servicemen and kids and others who visited the San Francisco International Airport U.S.O. lounge succumbed after a brief illness at his Foster City summer residence, despite devoted care by his secretary, Colleen Jones (who also happens to be the U.S.O. secretary).

Miss Jones, who raised Sir Francis from an egg, was his confidante as well as his foster mom. She said the cause of his sudden illness has not yet been determined.

Life was brief — but stuffed for Sir Francis — and everyone knows that the best of stuffing can be too much for any duck. Perhaps the endless offerings of goodies had something to do with it.

Sir Francis also cultivated some unusual friends during his lifetime — among them "Baron" and "Prince," a pair of noble canines attached to the sheriff's office who sniff out marijuana, cocaine, and heroine in air travelers' luggage at the airport.

Miss Jones said while Sir Francis liked grass, he was selective. And, he never got bombed, she emphasized.

Five Hurt in Auto Crash In Pacifica

Three persons were hospitalized, two of them children, in a one-car accident June 26 afternoon on Sharp Park Road in Pacifica.

Admitted to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City were Candy Kessler, 15, of 306 Richmond Drive, Millbrae, Sherri Hixon, 4½, and Monita Hixon, 1½, both of 1157 Montgomery Ave., San Bruno.

All three sustained various cuts and bruises, according to a hospital official.

Also in the vehicle were 6-year-old Beatrice Hixon and the driver, Peggy Butler, 25, both also having the Montgomery Avenue address. They were treated and released from the hospital.

When contacted about the accident, the Pacifica Police Department indicated limited knowledge of it. The city's fire department, also on the scene, said it appeared that the driver lost control and struck a tree headon.

According to a fire department spokesman, it appeared that 1½-year-old Monita might have been thrown through the windshield.

Charity Loss in Fireworks Theft

Stealing that rented truck parked on Del Prado Street in Daly City early Sunday morning wasn't only illegal—it was downright unpatriotic.

Inside the van was some $3,000 worth of safe and sane fireworks intended to be sold by the Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church to raise needed monies.

Miss Brisbane Named Dream Girl

The city of Brisbane recorded its first San Mateo County Fiesta Dream Girl last night as blonde Pauline Schmidt captured top honors before some 400 spectators at the County Fairgrounds. It was the 21st Dream Girl contest.

Cheers of delight came from the small Brisbane contingent as the victory was announced after hours of judging. The city hopes to double in size in the next few years with the acquisition of San Bruno Mountain and civic pride took a giant jump forward last night.

The new Fiesta Dream girl is 17, measures 35-23-35 and is five feet five inches tall, weighing 118 pounds. She will reign for a year beginning with the County Fiesta in late July. Her prizes last night included a trip to San Diego, a wardrobe from Roi Ford of Menlo Park and a cash gift from the California Jockey Club.

She was crowned by Congressman Leo Ryan, aided by Assemblyman Lou Papan.

Miss Congeniality winner was Elaine Bule of San Bruno.

Other contestants included Paula Capelli of Belmont, Beverly Keeling of Burlingame, Debbie Thompson of Daly City, Linda Rainey of Millbrae, Cindy Dawson of Pacifica, Lauren Fauro of Redwood City, Mardi Boles of San Carlos, Jane Ownes of East Palo Alto, Lyn Patterson of San Mateo and Susan Zuckerbrot of South San Francisco.

Knows Her Men?

Although Paula Capelli of Belmont did not win Dream Girl honors last night the young interior design student came up with the best quip.

When asked by emcee Mike Cleary how she would decorate a room for her ideal man she replied, "Well I would choose a modern motif and then fill it with dirty furniture."

Anti-Burglar Funds Slated

San Bruno council has approved an expenditure of $752 for the frst year funding in a three-year North County burglary prevention program.

The expenditures, based on a city's population and assessed valuation, will go towards the support of a burglary investigation group. The group, consisting of four officers and a clerk, will zero in on North County burglary problems, by identifying types and how to suppress and bring the problem to better public awareness.

According to Police Chief Russell Cunningham, the three-year-project is estimated to cost $4,038.

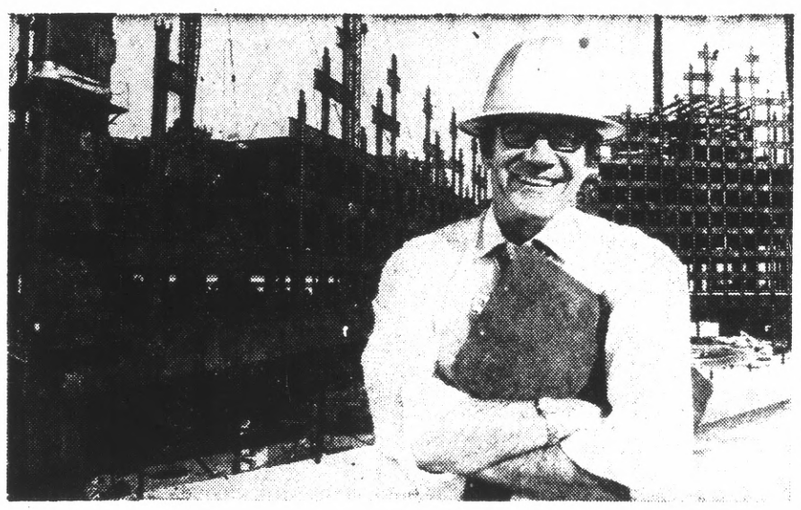
Security Pacific Bank announces
Automatic Investment Service...


Or:
How we've made investing easy for the investor.
All you need is a checking account with us.
Here's how it works:
You say the word and each month we'll slip a pre-determined amount out of your checking account and into a common stock investment. Or into your savings account. Or into the purchase of a U.S. Series E Savings Bond. Or all three. You decide.
You also decide exactly which stock or stocks you'd like us to buy for you. You select from a list of the twenty-five largest corporations included in Standard & Poor's Industrial 425 Index, based upon the market value of the outstanding shares of common stock of these corporations. You can buy full shares, or you can buy fractional shares.
Automatic Investment Service is unique. Security Pacific is the first and only bank in California to offer its customers this convenient new way to invest and save on a regular basis, automatically. Another "something special."
Your next step should be toward your nearest branch. And let us know exactly what you want us to do for you: Invest in common stocks, in Series E bonds, transfer money into your savings account, or set up the combination which you feel best suits your own objectives.
Then relax. We'll do the rest.

Airport Transport Lack Major Worry To County Planners

Six major deficiencies in the environmental impact report (EIR) concerning expansion of San Francisco International airport to virtually double the size of the facility were "noted" Wednesday by the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

Although the commission neither adopted nor rejected the report, it noted, after 3½ hours of hearing, that many concerns should be expressed to the San Francisco Airports Commission, which submitted the report.

Emphasis was placed by the planning commission on the lack of public transportation to and from the airport.

Commissioner Wayne K. Thomas said he was particularly concerned about the traffic problem, primarily its impact on North San Mateo County cities.

"The airport commission is going to have to face up to the problem," he stated.

Going to the airport commission with appropriate comments are these major concerns expressed by the planning commission:

Noise from increased highway and jet airplane use, highway congestion, decreased air quality, decreased water quality, lack of coordination by San Francisco with local agencies, and "secondary" impacts generated by the needs of the population serving the urban services due to the airport expansion.

Thomas said he believes that the paramount question in the proposed airport expansion is that of traffic.

"It doesn't stop with the airport," he stated.

"The lack of public transportation concerns the people of the North County," he said. "They are concerned that their property will become nothing but a feeder access to the airport."

The traffic problems are not only a problem to the North County, according to Burlingame Councilwoman Dorothy Cusick. She predicted that expansion of the airport would create a 15 to 40 per cent "beyond capacity" traffic load on result that many motorists would "spill off" onto Burlingame streets.

"I'm concerned with the effect on Burlingame streets," the councilwoman said. "It's not mentioned in the report, and that's what it is supposed to do. We still don't know what to expect (in traffic impact), but it will be considerable."

"The cities," Mrs. Cusick added, "are concerned with the incompleteness of the report."

She contended that the proposed airport expansion would add 11 million car trips a year in the airport vicinity, even with rapid transit.

Planning Commissioner Thomas expressed concern relative to parking at the expanded airport once motorists do reach there.

"I don't think you are going to be able to build your parking high enough," Thomas told Tom Bertken, deputy director of airports for San Francisco.

"Well," Thomas replied, "rapid transit is very vital . . . we will have to maintain a high volume of mass transit access."

Commissioner Wallace Benson suggested (not facetiously, he said) that consideration be given to running a ferryboat to the airport from San Francisco in order to cut down on traffic congestion.

One speaker before the commission, Louis H. Klein, of Millbrae, asked that the commission withhold approval of the EIR.

Contending that the airport has a "perversely" located take-off area, with jet blasts affecting the area, he informed the planning commission that, "You have more power than you realize . . . you can hold up the whole thing on a little thing."

However, the main emphasis was on traffic.

Sally Cooper of Woodside contended that the proposed airport expansion would result in an additional 80,000 cars on Bayshore Freeway.

"A balanced transportation system of which we all dream cannot be achieved by this piecemeal, single-purpose approach," she said.

Bertken insisted that San Francisco doesn't favor "growth at any cost" policy, but a phased, rational growth.

However, he stated, additional terminal space without more parking is not feasible.

The airport growth, Bertken said, is "explosive" and the need is "demonstrated."

Following the planning commission's "noting" of the EIR, County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe said that members of his staff will be present at the meeting of the San Francisco Planning Commission, when it considers the report, to express the concerns of San Mateo County.

Millbrae Man Wins Suit, to Get $100,000

A Superior Court jury in San Francisco last week awarded $100,000 to a 63-year-old Millbrae man who had been injured in an altercation with a Municipal Railway bus driver.

Hyman Coplon of Millbrae contended in the suit that he suffered a knee injury when he got into a fight on Jan. 16, 1970, with Edward McCoy, a Muni driver who, he said, had sideswiped his car.

Coplon's attorney, Donald Ronda, told the jury that the Millbrae man now walks with a permanent limp.

Coplon asked for $250,000 in his suit, contending that 27-year-old McCoy grabbed him by the lapels and shoved him to the ground. McCoy said he grabbed Coplon but denied that he shoved him.

Judge Francis McCarty instructed the jury that the city of San Francisco was liable for the damages since McCoy was acting in the course of his job.

Neighbor Boy Arrested in Home Assault

A 15-year-old boy was arrested and sent to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall after he allegedly attacked a Broadmoor mother of two early Saturday morning.

The 37-year-old woman told police she was awakened by the sound of someone prowling about her home in the quiet residential community shortly after 4 a.m.

When she spotted the youth he began chasing her around the house. She was struck from behind by a blunt object, inflicting a severe wound to the back of her head, police said.

The victim was taken to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment.

Two children asleep elsewhere in the house were not disturbed, a spokesman said.

Police, working on a discription furnished by the woman, arrested a neighborhood boy and charged him with the crime.

NAVY FIREMAN Recruit Herman L. Leibouvitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Leibouvitz, 868 Newman Drive, South San Francisco, was graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

CC Faces Fiscal Straits

By JOHN HORGAN

For the better part of the past year, local officials of the San Mateo Community College District have watched with concern as neighboring high school and elementary school districts wrestled with the serious fiscal problems raised by SB 90.

This week, as the state legislature moves to pass a new bill, SB6, the college authorities' doubts about their own financial future have come ever closer to reality.

SB 6, which is currently working its way through the legislative maze in Sacramento, would have virtually the same kind of effect on a junior college district as SB 90 has had on the high schools and elementary schools.

SB 6 seeks to place a lid on a college district's ability to increase its income regardless of increases in the value of assessed valuation.

Since it seems that the legislature is almost certain to pass SB 6 soon, the trustees and administrators of the San Mateo district last night determined to move with great caution through the next six weeks as they prepare their 1973-74 budget.

The main reason for their emphasis on watchful care is that the administrators don't want to make the same mistake that some high school and elementary districts made last year at about this time: They don't want to lower the tax rate for this coming fiscal year and then find that, due to the tenets of SB 6, they have actually penalized their district.

So, even though the trustees last night approved a preliminary budget of $28.9 million, they made it clear that substantial changes in that document could take place over the upcoming six weeks. The trustees must adopt a final budget sometime in the first ten days of August.

The preliminary budget, which features about 10 per cent of the total as reserves (the highest percentage figure for any district in San Mateo County), is nearly $3½ million more than the 1972-73 budget.

But the tax rate for this coming year would be the same as 72-73 if the new budget were final. The rate totals about 75 cents per $100 in assessed valuation.

According to a report from Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs Matteo Pasanaro, if SB 6 is passsed in its present form, San Mateo would get about $918,000 in extra money from the state in 73-74.

However, teacher representatives at last night's meeting said that SB 6 freezes spending at 73-74 levels.

Several of the trustees voiced displeasure with the principles inherent in SB 6 which place a great deal of control with the state instead of the local body.

"This kind of state action will threaten our flexibility," Trustee James Tormey declared. "So, we'll have to create flexibility for ourselves."

One of the ways the district might seek to do that would be to keep its reserves at the present high level.

It was pointed out that the present preliminary budget makes no provision for increases in teachers' salaries. The teachers are asking for a 7.3 per cent across-the-board hike for 73-74.

Planner Asks SSF License

Former South San Francisco City Planner Dan Pass has filed an application at City Hall for a business license to operate out of his home, doing business as a "community planner."

According to the application, which is dated June 22 and is being processed through normal channels, the date the business would become operational would be July 1.

Pass left the city with a deferred retirement on June 21.

Center Gets D.C. Funds

Only one organization — the Guadalupe Health Center — received any of the federal revenue-sharing funds distributed by the city of Daly City last week.

The health center, housed in the Old City Hall in Daly City at 75 Wellington Ave., had asked for $22,000. The council, at the recommendation of City Mgr. David Rowe, gave the center $5,000.

The remaining $205,760 of the funds was doled out to various city agencies for park equipment, police cars, computer services, and public works equipment.

S.F. Police Officer's Home Ransacked

The San Bruno home of San Francisco Police Officer Michael O'Keefe was ransacked during daylight hours Wednesday and property valued at an estimated $574.50 taken, police said.

According to the police report, Mrs. O'Keefe, upon returning home ran into a man who apparently had just come out of the O'Keefe's side door. He asked Mrs. O'Keefe if she knew "where Maria lives," police reported.

Investigation revealed that entry was gained by using a garden tool to pry open a window. Police said the thief took currency, golf clubs, a pistol, jewelry and camera equipment.

Mrs. O'Keefe gave San Bruno authorities a thorough description of the man she briefly saw.

She said he had a small mustache, short sideburns, conventional haircut, slight almond shape to his eyes, light gray pants (Big Ben style), green work shirt, and a slight accent.

Mrs. O'Keefe also noted that he was about 25-to-30 years old, stood 5-foot-8 and weighed about 150 pounds.

A San Bruno man was in critical condition and two coworkers hospitalized at Stanford Medical Center today with injuries suffered in a spectacular headon collision of two large trucks on Middlefield Road at Fair Oaks Lane in Atherton at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

John W. Dean, 53, 564 Acacia Ave., San Bruno, was taken to Stanford with severe head and chest injuries. Atherton police said he was impaled on the steering wheel of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. truck he was driving.

Dean, a PG&E foreman, was southbound with his crew of three other men in the truck cab when it collided with a heavily-loaded northbound Bywater Construction Co. dumptruck driven by William W. Locke, 32, 470 7th Ave., Menlo Park.

Two of the men with Dean — View, and Curt Dickinson, 22, of Los Altos were pinned in the cab, while Martin Michael, 20, 116 Tuscaloosa Ave., Atherton, was thrown through the windshield, police said.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Happy Independence Day! Are you going on an outing to the park or beach? Or are you having a picnic in your own back yard? However and wherever you are celebrating the holiday, I hope you have great fun and not too much sun.

Speaking of holidays, what would the Thanksgiving and Christmas meals be without turkey and stuffing? Now we can enjoy stuffing any time of the year, thanks to a new type of mix which is cooked on top of the stove. Using this mix as a base, this Chicken Divan is easily prepared.

This recipe calls for cooked chicken breasts. You may either simmer them in boiling salted water until tender. Or you may wrap them in foil, place in shallow baking pan and bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes to an hour. Reserve the stock if you simmer them in water or if you bake them, save the juices released and add to chicken bouillon to make up the amount of liquid needed in the recipe.

CHICKEN DIVAN

3 boned whole chicken breasts, split
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water

Add chicken and half teaspoon salt to one and one-half cups boiling water, reduce heat and simmer until tender. Reserve stock; cool chicken slightly and cut each piece into 2 slices. If you cook the chicken in foil in the oven, bake at 350-degrees for one hour, reserving the juices. Add these juices to chicken bouillon to make 1¼ cups liquid.

2 packages frozen broccoli spears
1 package (6 oz.) chicken flavor stuffing Mix

Cook the broccoli as directed on package, drain. Prepare stuffing mix as directed on package. Meanwhile prepare sauce.

¼ cup margarine
3 Tablespoons unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup milk
1 Tablespoon sherry wine
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
¼ cup grated Swiss cheese

Melt the fourth cup butter in saucepan; blend in the three tablespoons flour. Add 1¼ cups reserved chicken stock, fourth cup milk and one tablespoon wine. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a boil and is slightly thickened. Pour a small amount of hot mixture over egg yolk, blend well and return mixture to saucepan. Add two tablespoons cheese, stir until melted.

Spoon stuffing into shallow baking dish. Top with broccoli, then chicken slices. Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Place in preheated broiler and broil until golden brown, 5 to 8 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

I recently received a recipe for a very special dessert which I'd like to share with you good cooks.

TANGY APPLE SQUARE

½ cup margarine
½ cup light brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 can Applie Pie Filling 20 ozs.
1 can Lemon Pie Filling 20 ozs.
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 Tablespoons granulated sugar

Combine the half cup margarine, half cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and one cup flour. Cut through the mixture with pastry blender of two knives until it resembles coarse meal. Put in greased 9x9-inch pan. Spread apple pie filling over crust, next carefully spread lemon pie filling over apples. Mix the one cup sour cream with the three tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and spread over lemon filling.

Bill Would Ban Some Weapons

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) has introduced legislation which would ban the manufacture, sale, importation or possession of "certain highly dangerous weapons."

The measure, AB 2571, would outlaw "Nunchaku," a weapon made of two sticks joined by a short length of chain or rope.

It is used commonly in the practice of karate.

Metal instruments with sharpened edges in the shape of a polygon, trefoil, cross, star, diamond or other geometric shape also would be prohibited under the measure.

"These weapons were brought to my attention by officers of the Daly City Police Department who have confiscated such weapons from youths in the Bay Area. If used correctly they can cause extensive bodily harm and even death," Papan said.

Papan's bill would make it a felony to manufacture, import, sell, offer for sale, lend, give or possess "Nunchaku" or the star-shaped blade.

AV Up; Tax Cut Vowed

By BOB HEMINGWAY

A reduction in the basic property tax rate for San Mateo County taxpayers was pledged today following the announcement by County Assessor Jack H. Estes that the 1973-74 assessed valuation of county real and personal property has increased by 10.17 per cent.

"This definitely means there will be a tax decrease — the Board of Supervisors will be able to cut the tax rate," said Board Chairman Robert St. Clair.

Estes said that the increase, up $211,021,152 to a total of $2,285,190,747, is the largest ever recorded in the county. Last year's increase was 6.8 per cent.

The increase is good news to county officials faced with a frozen maximum $2.09 per $100 assessed value tax rate in trying to balance a budget which may approach the $140,000,000 figure.

In submitting the proposed budget this year, County Manager M. D. Tarshes was "assuming a 6 per cent increase in assessed valuation

The exact amount of the tax reduction is not known at this time because revenue and fund balances are not final, St. Clair said.

He added that the board will proceed with the tax reduction, even though it may result in a proportionate loss of federal revenue-sharing funds next year. Revenue-sharing funds are based on the previous year's tax rate.

St. Clair also pointed out that Senate Bill 90 would not preclude the county from raising next year's tax rate back to $2.09 if financial circumstances warrant.

Estes attributed this year's huge assessed value increase to two factors—intense review of 84,000 of the 179,958 real property parcels in the county and the "magnitude" of increasing real estate prices.

Foster City, which had its first review of assessment values since the city was organized, had a 30.82 per cent increase over last year, leading all other cities in the county.

Other high increases are recorded for cities where large areas of single-family, apartment and industrial reviews were made, including Brisbane, San Bruno, South San Francisco, Millbrae, Burlingame, San Mateo and Redwood City.

Although the assessed valuation for the county's unincorporated areas was up 9.78 per cent, the increase would have been somewhat higher if it weren't for the fact that assessed valuation reductions ranging to 50 per cent were placed on coastside properties affected by the restrictions of the Coastal Zoning Initiative which requires state permits for development within 1000 yards of the ocean. The uncertainty of future development has caused the value of such properties to dip.

Still to be received by the county before a tax rate can be established is the assessed valuation of utility properties in the county. The assessing of utilities is done by the State Board of Equalization, and will not be completed until late this month or early August.

Last year's assessed value of utilities was $101,659,360. Assessed value of utilities customarily increases 1 to 2 per cent a year.

Estes reports that the total assessed value of the secured roll (real property) is $1,933,570,712, up 10.22 per cent, and the value of the unsecured roll (personal property) is $351,620,035, up 9.89 per cent.

The city-by-city 1973-74 assessed valuation, with per cent of increase in parenthesis:

Atherton—$51,133,621 (1.45)
Belmont—$70,260,103 (2.92)

S.S.F. Robber Takes $2,000

A lone gunman robbed Lawrence Gotelli, manager of Gotelli Speed Shop, 321 El Camino Real, South San Francisco, of an estimated $2,000.

Police said the bandit, described as a male Negro in his late 20s, about 5-8 and medium weight, approached Gotelli as he was closing for the night on Friday.

The gunman, police said, forced Gotelli to open the cash register, and then forced him into an office, where Gotelli had other receipts ready for deposit.

AIRMAN Marte M. Buendia Jr., whose wife, Ellen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Clark, 1075 Skyline Drive, Daly City, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

MRS. ALVIN SCHWARZBACH, who has previously served The Friends of the Daly City Library as book pricing chairman, has taken the post of The Friends 1973-74 book fair chairman. The Friends will have their fall fair in September. Used sheet music, records and books of all kinds are being collected and will be processed during the summer. Donations may be left in receptacles in all three branch public libraries.

San Bruno 'Samaritans' In Mix-up

San Bruno officials have traced down the persons seen at the site of a Sneath Lane grass fire June 26.

And it was an embarrassing case of one good samaritan unknowingly turning in two other good samaritans; not a situation where blazes were being deliberately started as it first appeared.

Fire Marshal Harper Petersen said that firemen had been fighting a small brush fire on Sneath Lane.

And due to the fact the ranks were thin that day and there were several grass fires under way, particularly a difficult one at Longview and Moreland Drives, the firefighters left the Sneath Lane site, apparently prematurely.

The fire again took hold. About this time, Mr. and Mrs. David Neidlinger, of 649 B. Manor Drive, Pacifica, were driving eastbound on Sneath Lane. They saw the smoldering blaze and stopped.

According to Petersen, the Neidlingers decided they ought to stop and try to put out the fire. The husband got out of the car, carrying a plastic water jug he keeps in his vehicle, and doused the blaze.

At this time, Bonnie Gross, of 107 Edison, South San Francisco, was driving by. To her, it appeared that someone was deliberately pouring some flammable liquid to start a blaze, so she took down the Neidlingers' auto license number and reported it, Petersen said.

"It was a case of people getting involved," said Petersen. He added he thought that was a good thing — even if it proved a little embarrassing.

VALERIE ANNE PARKER, 16-year-old senior at St. John's High School and a contestant in the California State finals of the National Teenager Pageant, competed June 22-23 in Santa Barbara. Representing the Westlake district of Daly City, Miss Parker placed as a semi-finalist in the preliminaries. In the formal competition for the California title, she was an award finalist, winning the "Miss Leadership" of California award, based on the judges' opinio of her leadership qualifications demonstrated in her scholastic achievements and community involvement.

The members of the Daly City Exchange club have called for mention of the fireworks booth being sponsored by that organization to raise funds for Operation Santa Claus and the Youth Fund.

It's not too late to help with these programs by buying your last minute pyrotechnical devises at the club's booth located in the parking lot of the Serra Bowl on Junipero Serra Boulevard in Colma, just off Highway 280.

Don Bevilacqua is the booth chairman and George Ducas is the 1973 co-chairman. The booth will be open until 10 p.m. tonight, July 4, so that you still have a chance to enjoy the excitement of the Fourth with the added knowledge that your purchase will help make some child's next Christmas a little more spectacular!

SUMMER TIME is picnic time and the Balboa Alumni association is attempting to reach all old and new grads to invite them to the annual Balboa High School Alumni Picnic which will be held on Sunday, July 29 at the Blackberry Farm in Cupertino.

Association president Frank Galo, along with Catherine Porter, chairman of the social committee and Emily Sumroll, chairman of the membership committee, are at work on the preliminary preparations for the day long reunion for classmates and their families and friends. Swimming, dancing, softball, horseshoes, volleyball are on the agenda for the adults, relay races and contests for adults and children are planned and the tiniest guests will be entertaining themselves in a special playground equipped with a wading pool.

Reservations are required. Checks should be mailed, prior to July 20, to the Balboa Alumni Association, Picnic Committee, 100 Cayuga St., San Francisco, 94112. Charge per adult will be $1.25 and 85 cents for children between 6 and 12 years of age. Children under 6 will be admitted free. Tickets will be sent by return mail.

Anyone having questions concerning the event is asked to call Mrs. Porter, 586-5213.

Picnic goers are asked to bring their own food and drinks, there is a snack bar on the premises and barbecue pits are available for those wishing to cook items. Proceeds from the sale of tickets will be placed in the scholarship fund, according to Charlene Clay, chairman of the public relations committee.

VOLUNTEER Camp Counselors are needed by the Friends Outside to help staff the Family Camp to be held at Westminster Woods from July 22 to July 28.

Counselors should be able to run arts and crafts programs, direct sports activities, lead singing, do camp fire programs and work with young children and their mothers. Anyone with camp counseling experience who is interested in helping is asked to call the Friends Outside office immediately. The number to call is 661-6900.

The local unit is only $600 short of its goal of $3,000 which is needed to send all the eligible children to camp and requests for money are still being made so that no child will be denied an opportunity to have a camping experience. In addition to money there is a need for camp clothing for small children, sports equipment, toiletries, duffel bags, back packs or old suitcases and all types of items for arts and craft projects. Call the Friends Outside number is you can help.

Mrs. Louise Enberg, the executive director has issued a special word of thanks to the Guardsmen organization which has donated 25 camperships for children who fulfill the age and income requirements set by that organization. In addition to the Guardsmen a number of individuals have made generous contributions and support has come from the Society for Christian Work, the Joint Strategy and Action Committee, and the Department Store Employees Union, local 1100.

Bruno Buys New Lot for Grundy Park

Grundy Park will be expanded, thanks to a decision by the San Bruno City Council to purchase an approximately 2.2-acre nearby lot that was once slated for use as a site for a house.

City Manager Gerald Minford recommended the purchase of the property, saying that owner Joe Welch had $13,400 invested in it, and would be willing to sell at that price. Welch had earlier valued the property at $15,000.

In making the motion to purchase the property, Councilman Tony Governale noted that piecemeal property purchases were not going to become a regular thing with the council.

"This particular piece is unique," said Governale. "It is next to an existing park, and can be conveniently added to the park." The vote to purchase was unanimous.

Residents of the area, who had forced the matter to the purchase stage, expressed their thanks for the council decision.

The substandard lot had been slated for use as a three-bedroom, three-bath home site, according to Welch. To build the home, he would have had to cut down several trees. The residents didn't want to have them cut, hence the alternative of land purchase came up as a solution.

Minford said a park design, utilizing the trees, possibly as a picnic table area, is already progressing.

each group, and how one can become involved in a worthwhile volunteer program. If I don't review your favorite organization during the weeks ahead please drop me a note and complain — maybe I don't know about your program and I am always delighted to learn! Mail addressed to me may be sent to the office of the Post, 205 West Angus, San Bruno, 94066, or to my home, 70 DeSoto Street, San Francisco, 94127.

THIS WEEK'S review will deal with the work undertaken by Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers Club in Daly City.

The requirements for membership in this active group are simple, be a member of the Our Lady of Perpetual Help parish and attend one of the club meetings on a second Thursday of any month between September and June.

Mrs. Jean . Simmons, an active member of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, also is very involved in the parish club and she has just been installed as the president for the coming term.

According to Mrs. Simmons, the 200 women who are on the club roster work diligently to raise money for the school budget and provide funds for special projects requested by the principal of the parish school, Sister Madeleva.

In the past, activities aimed at raising funds have included an October potluck dinner, a boutique at Christmas time, a Ladies League Luncheon in February and a Giant Bingo in May. During the coming months Mrs. Simmons hopes to initiate an additional monthly event which will help defray the cost of needed repairs to the school facilities.

Helping with the club's 1973-74 program will be Mrs. Virginia Stanley, vice president; Mrs. Doreen Brown, financial secretary; Mrs. Lita Tinetti, recording secretary; Mrs. Martha Murphy, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Lew, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Vera Sans, auditor.

For more information about Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers Club, call Mrs. Simmons at 756-4601.

Missing Girl's Father Appeals For Some Word

ANDREA PAGELS

A very unhappy father came into The Post office today and asked for help. He appealed through the paper to his missing 15-year-old daughter, Andrea Pagels, a 5-year-old sophomore at Aragon High School, to please let the family know that she's all right.

The girl has been missing since last Thursday at 3 p.m. when she went for a hike in the open country either in the San Francisco watershed, Sugar Loaf, the Tobin Clark Estate or along some of the motorcycle and other trails in the area near her home.

A serious girl, Andrea has dated, but has no steady boyfriend.

Last Friday afternoon, following newspaper stories and a search, the father G. G. Pagels of 2031 New Brunswick Dr., San Mateo, said the family received an anonymous phone call from a male who said, "She's all right" and then hung up.

"We don't know if it was a crank call or a legitimate effort to reassure us. We are deeply concerned about Andrea's welfare. If she has simply left for some reason, as long as we know she is all right, that's what counts. She can be assured we will not make any effort to drag her back home against her will. We are just terribly worried about her."

Andrea is interested in playing the guitar, but did not take the instrument with her. She is also interested in drama and writing poetry. She has an older brother, Chris, 18, a student at Canada College, and a younger sister, Erica, 13, who will be entering Aragon.

The father is an English and reading teacher at Canada College.

He said "There was no family argument that would have sent her away. She often went for walks, but never came home after dark. She did not hitchike."

A search conducted by sheriff's deputies and other authorities has been called off.

"We are appealing to anyone who may have some knowledge of her whereabouts to give us the information," the father said. "We are pleading with Andrea, should she be alive — we have no way of knowing whether she has met with foul play or has been injured in some way — to let us hear from her. We want to help her, if she will let us."

When she left home last Thursday, Andrea was wearing brown corduroy pants, a brown suede jacket with embroidered and felt-penned quotations on it, brown ankle boots and a blue print shirt with a gold pull-up zipper.

She is of medium build, 5 feet 6, has hazel eyes, a fair, but faintly freckled complexion, and light brown shoulder-length hair described as wavy and slightly frizzled.

The girl may have had some money with her, but not more than perhaps $20, according to the family. She did not take any other clothes or a purse with her. She was carrying a small green notebook in which to jot down ideas for poetry.

Andrea has a close girl friend, or her grandparents, or an adult teacher whom she knows and who would recognize her voice, if she wishes to call. Or, if she can write a note, anything, her parents say — just to let them know that she's all right.

Pagels added it, as some have reported, a girl answering Andrea's description was seen around the Highland's School, if the direction she took was noticed, it would be helpful. Also a classmate said he thought he saw her in the vicinity of Borel School. If anyone saw her or noticed in which direction she went it would also help the family in its increasingly desperate search, the father said.

RESCUE — A fireman and police officers assist one of the victims being hauled to Half Moon Bay Road from a 100-foot deep gully where a car came to rest after a head-on collision Saturday. Seven persons were injured in the crash, which officers said was caused when one driver lost control after his motor stalled.

'Spanish Swindle' Making Comeback in a New Form

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, BBB Barometer

The Postal Inspection Service warns that the "Spanish Swindle" has been brought back to life, polished and is now circulating throughout the United States.

The current promotion is practically the same racket that began after the defeat of the Spanish Armada. Individuals, claiming to be wealthy in their own countries, wrote letters that they were prisoners of England and offered rich reward to anyone who would send a specific sum to them or to their friends who would intercept the ransom money.

Victims of the present "Spanish Swindle" appear to be selected from common mailing lists containing names of prominent Americans, such as those who appear in the national "Who's Who." Addressees are approached as having been "recommended by a very good friend as a trustworthy person."

The letters are written in a personal tone, relating the circumstances of a responsible and respectable person who is being held prisoner by Mexican authorities on bankruptcy charges.

The captive confidentially offers a one-third interest of his cash estate (in some cases an amount as high as $450). This money is said to be safe in a suitcase in a United States Custom Office.

To share in this money the addressee must supply the mailer with a temporary loan of $10,000 to redeem the claim stub to the suitcase which the Mexican authorities had taken into custody at the time of the mailer's arrest. The prisoner claims he holds no hope for his release but he is concerned for the welfare of his "beautiful daughter."

Those who have replied to a letter of this type were sent another letter in which the prisoner requests a time and place for the exchange of the money to be established.

The lure of money, the "beautiful daughter" who will be waiting in Mexico City, has already proven irrestible to unfortunate gullible victims who actually went to the meeting place and were tricked or beaten out of their money.

If you should receive a letter of this type, contact the Better Business Bureau or the Postal Authorities immediately.

Westinghouse, Deane Sale

Deane and Deane, Inc., for nearly four years the largest landholding developer in San Mateo County, no longer holds that title. Its 50-50 partner in buying out the 8000-plus acres of Henry Doelger Coastside lands in 1969, Westinghouse Electric Corp., has taken over the property.

The Deanes, Jim and his son Bill, and Robert Hardesty, executive vice president, will continue on from their Half Moon Bay headquarters as Dean Projects, Inc. to handle some $40 million worth of Bay Area-wide housing developments now under way as part of their own construction business.

In the meantime the Westinghouse holdings will be managed by a new company, Half Moon Bay Properties, Inc., which will operate out of a former Deane and Deane office at 525 Main St., Half Moon Bay. The Deane main office is at 575 Main.

A spokesman for the Deanes said yesterday that the Deane-Westinghouse separation was an amicable parting and vehemently denied rumors circulating for some time that Deane was either financially strapped or that Westinghouse was impatient to begin development.

The Deanes have become the favorite target for conservationist and limited growth enthusiasts on the Coastside and a series of sewage and building moratoriums and the passage of Proposition 20 last November has effectively stalled several large-scale projects by the builder.

Short statements from the Deanes and from Westinghouse yesterday announced the divorce as of yesterday but neither gave any reasons. Westinghouse also said nothing about what its plans or organization might be.

Neither Bill Deane, president of the new company, nor Jim, chairman of the board, could be reached for comment.

The Deanes will complete their 176-unit Frenchman's Creek subdivision in Half Moon Bay, the only residential project they ever got going.

Appointment

The nephew of North County Democratic leader Julius F. Castelan Sunday was named first vice mayor of Los Angeles by newly elected Mayor Tom Bradley.

Castelan, a civil engineer and contractor, heard it from his newphew, Manuel Aragon, 41, formerly of El Centro and a Los Angeles resident the past 20 years.

"It is the highest Mexican - American appointment ever made in Los Angeles," Castelan said jubilantly yesterday.

Castelan, who lives at 862 Bellevue Avenue, Daly City, has had a few appointments of his own. The former Democratic Central Committee leader currently is president of the five-county Regional Planning Council for Spanish - Speaking Citizens, set up by the Federal Human Resources Commission of San Francisco — a three-city national pilot program.

The former Daly City city engineer also is a member of the Daly City Redevelopment Commission, an EOC county commissioner appointed by the supervisors, and a legal aid commissioner.

Health, Welfare Director Responds to Criticism

By DUANE SANDUL

The County Grand Jury report criticizing mental health services in San Mateo County was compiled without interviews with Dr. George Pickett, director of the Public Health and Welfare Department, or his top aides.

The report, released last Friday, recommends a full-scale Grand Jury investigation into what was termed a "crisis" in the county's programs.

But according to Dr. Pickett, there is no crisis.

In an interview today, Pickett said, "Many of the things the Grand Jury discussed are on the drawing boards now. I don't know if they knew that when they completed their review."

"I'm not happy that someone would write about a lack of planning and coordination without first talking with people in charge of the planning and coordination," Dr. Pickett said.

"The Grand Jury is not far off base, but their report could have been rounded off better and with more insight if they had had more discussions," Pickett said.

Bernard Eichhorn, committee chairman for the seven persons of the Grand Jury who reviewed mental health services, was reported out of town.

On a related matter, Pickett denied claims by some of his former aides and private psychiatrists that the county is allowing mentally ill persons to roam the streets because of inadequate facilities.

Pickett responced to each of the nine areas labeled a "problem" by the Grand Jury committee.

He agreed with the committee's opinion that the state has been returning patients too quickly to permit adjustment by the county, and that the returning patients are more seriously disturbed, and that reimbursement by the state has been inadequate.

But on that point, Pickett said that state funding will be better this fiscal year, "and we will know if it will suffice within six months."

The jury lamented that the county lacks a locked facility, and that patients requiring this type of care are sent out of the county or placed in hotels or boarding houses where supervision is inadequate.

"We have a locked facility, but it's not well-equipped," Pickett said, adding that the extent of a new facility depends on whether Chope Hospital is rebuilt.

The jury said that the county lacks an intermediate hospital care unit, but Pickett rebutted, "We have a damn good facility at the Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center (west of Belmont)."

Pickett had much to say on the jury's claim that "Chope Hospital in San Mateo is improperly staffed because personnel is leaving due to the instability of the hospital's future."

"It's not improperly staffed," Pickett said. "There have been staff problems in the psychiatric (unit) because inpatient is not an attractive thing to run. The director left for medical reasons, and a new one began work yesterday.

"We stopped several months ago sending violent patients to state hospitals, and we've learned how to deal with them in the (local, Chope) ward," Pickett said. "It's a difficult chore.

"We've had trouble maintaining a mixture of nurses and nonnurses on the wards because some of them found it (keeping violent patients) too threatening," Pickett said.

He added that some others have left because their residency terms expired.

"I believe turnover is for reasons other than the stability of the hospital," Pickett said. "We've made it clear that regardless of the future of the hospital, psychiatric programs will be maintained."

The director said the jury's report that day-care centers are overcrowded and are handling a more difficult type patient than equipped to handle is partially true.

For that reason, we hope to move the North County facility when the present lease expires next March," Pickett said. "we're looking for new quarters."

He readily agreed with the jury's opinion that zoning ordinances have interfered with the development of local residential and convalescent hospitals.

The jury said current programs for dependent and neglected children are insufficient. This is one of the areas Pickett said is "on the drawing board."

He explained that he sought revenue-sharing funds to rectify the problem, but that the Board of Supervisors thought if the problem was "that severe", Pickett should make long-range goals.

"We're working on that now," Pickett added. "We're hoping to propose a contract with Belmont Twin Pines, who have a good adolescent psychiatric program, and with Peninsula Hospital, which is developing a program for younger persons."

Finally, on the jury's statement that a community house is needed in the North County Region, Pickett said funds have already been appropriated for one, and that officials are looking for a site. A community house in Redwood City is scheduled to open this Friday.

Meanwhile, Pickett denied reports by former aides and private doctors that the county is allowing mentally ill persons to roam the streets because of inadequate facilities, compounded by partial closure of state hospitals.

He said during the mid 1960s, the county sent an average of 685 persons to state hospitals annually. During 1971-72 the county sent 310 to the state hospital before the gradual cutbacks occurred.

During the fiscal year which ended Saturday, the county sent 145 patients, or slightly less than half the number before the state-imposed cutbacks.

"I don't think there is a pattern (in San Mateo County) of releasing potentially dangerous people into the community," Pickett said. "There are dangerous people in this community, and there always will be, whether we call them mentally ill or if they are people who simply dislike other people.

"With our programs, we try to reach out and deal with these people. But to some degree, we will always leave some people untreated, either by mistake or because they didn't come to our attention.

"The more capacity programs have for institutionalization, and the more society demands and pays for institutions, the more the problems can be hidden.

"The more we try to locally treat such individuals, the closer they come to the community. Some patients will not respond to treatment, and sometimes there are mistakes in diagnosis of treatment.

"But I think the most dangerous thing anyone can suggest is that local programs are starting these kinds of problems. There were crazy people here before state programs, and there are crazy people here now. And a mental health program cannot treat everything. There are cancers we cannot cure, and there are mental illnesses we cannot cure.

"But I cannot find evidence to support a pattern emerging of risky discharges of dangerous people into the community. Some of the persons who have cried out (that ill persons are dumped into the streets without treatment) create the impression that anyone who has ever been mentally ill is a dangerous person who goes out and injures, kills and bombs.

"That's not true, and that's the kind of statement which should flush the Tom Eagleton's of the world and get them mad.

"We've done well removing people from the big state insitutions, and we're no longer under pressure to increase our removals or decrease our utilization of hospitals," Pickett concluded.

Fireworks Warning; Local July 4 Observances

With grass and brush approaching the "high hazard" danger point, fire authorities in the mid-Peninsula warned parents today to supervise their children's fireworks, to use "safe and sane" fireworks and methods, and to stay away from open fields and grass.

In every central county city, fireworks have set off grass, roof and in some cases automobile fires in the past few days.

In the city of San Mateo, one automobile was gutted by fire early yesterday, and there have been several roof fires, apparently caused by turning fireworks into projectiles to see them explode in the air — a procedure termed "illegal" by the state fire marsnal.

Many parents were planning to take their children tomorrow to the big Fourth of July Parade starting at 10:30 a.m. in Redwood City — where more than 100,000 spectators are expected to crowd into the county government center to watch a parade that includes pipe and marching bands from all over California, 20 decorated floats, and drum and bugle corps from as far as Seattle.

Three major fireworks displays of the community sort are scheduled: Foster City will hold its biggest from the island community's Central Park off Hillsdale Boulevard beginning at 9 p.m.

Another big display is to be held the same evening across from Tanforan Park Shopping Center in San Bruno.

In Redwood City, the traditional big fireworks display will take place in the bayfront lands area east of Whipple Avenue, at sundown. It will feature the firing of a 100-pound rocket that will soar 3,000 feet into the air and explode into hundreds of rocket showers visible throughout the Peninsula.

The Animal Protection League Institute of America issued a special warning this week to keep fireworks away from pets.

"For thousands of pets these festivities will mean terror, homelessness, injury and even death," it reported.

"When an explosion sounds, animals may panic and flee, run through plate glass windows, collide with walls or attempt to climb fences. "It is not uncommon for a confused animal to dash into the street, heedless of traffic, or to continue to run until it becomes lost. There is a chance an animal will jump at a display and become burned."

The National Safety Council estimates that as many as 5,000 people will be injured and 1,000 fires will be caused by fires from fireworks.

Shooting firearms in public, even in the rural areas, is prohibited by county ordinance, Asst. Sheriff Eugene E. Stewart today warned.

Noting that six persons were cited over the weekend, Stewart said most persons are unaware of the law. Shooting of firearms is allowed only on shooting ranges or while hunting on private property during hunting season, he said.

"Sometimes there are so many people shooting, there is danger to each other, and it's quite possible stray bullets may kill someone," Stewart said.

Gas Station Brawl, Windows Not Washed

What happened at a service station at Third Avenue and Delaware Street on Sunday in San Mateo wasn't exactly like a TV script.

According to police, who arrested Mosese Valnuku, 37, of 204 South Norfolk St. Valnuku had driven into the station and ordered his tank filled.

The attendant, Ibraham Abedelkariem, 28, complied. Then the driver asked the attendant to look under the hood, and Abedelkariem did. Then he asked him to wash his windows.

He was told that the attendant did not have time at that moment, the station manager said, because five other cars had lined up for gas. Abedelkariem said he would be back in a few minutes to wash the windows.

Police said that the dirver then got out, grabbed the attendant by the shirt and said, "I paid for ten dollars worth of gas; now I want the glass wiped."

As Abedelkariem freed himself, a relative, Aboul Abdul Haleem, 30, of Hillside Drive, Burlingame, went to his aid. Police said the driver then struck Haleem in the chest and in the left eye. Haleem's wife, watching from the station, ran up and tried to pull her husband away; police said the driver then struck her twice with his open forehand and back hand.

At this point, another employe, Abdul Karim, 21, and several other people present approached the driver, and he jumped into his car.

Police said he began chasing Abedelkariem and the Haleems around the station parking lot attempting to run them down.

Finally, he left the scene. Upon his return, police, who had been busy spelling out those names, observed him and followed him to where he was informed he was the suspect of an assault with a deadly weapon (the auto).

At the station, Valnuku denied striking anybody and said that the attendant struck him. Police said he admitted chasing the three around the lot with his car, but said he did this onyl after someone started to chase him with a tool.

Bail was set by Judge Thomas Caldwell at $500.

Jury Critiques Pay Of Naturalist School

Although the outdoor education program offered by the San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools Office is "a credit to the county", there are some questions needing answering and further study scheduled by the schools committee of the County Grand Jury.

In the Grand Jury's interim report of its 1973 functions, the committee questioned that 40 per cent of the salary portion of the $167,722 budget for the outdoor program is paid to one administrator located at the county schools office in Redwood City, with the other 60 per cent divided among the on-site personnel, including a camp director, eight full-size naturalists and four junior naturalists.

Deputy County Schools Superintendent Dr. Myron Schussman said that the Grand Jury committee "did not talk to us" concerning the salaries.

He noted that the person who administrates the program also has other duties with the schools office and that the department allocates the salary fund to the YMCA, whose facilities the office uses near La Honda for the outdoor program, to pay the salaries.

Schussman said that the salaries paid the on-site personnel, ranging from $35 a week for junior naturalists (who are college students working on a one-semester basis and receive four hours college credits) to $90-$100 a week for naturalists and $200 a week for the camp director, are comparable to those paid by other counties for similar programs.

Despite Schussman's report, the committee contends that $90 a week for 54, plus, hours is "ridiculous".

"Their salaries should be raised to be consistent with other County School Department employes of similar responsibilities and workloads," the committee report states.

Also, the committee feels, since junior naturalists spend full days in teaching and related duties, the fact should be made known to their colleges in the hope that they can receive increased college credit, "perhaps up to a par with student teaching".

Noting the housing shortage and lack of library facilities and teacher preparation area, the committee recommends that the school department negotiate with the YMCA to erect modular units on the present site.

Although the school department has been considering acquiring a totally independent site for its outdoor education program, the committee says it is going to give further study to continued use of the YMCA property with improved facilities, or building of a new facility on property already owned by the county.

Fireman's Son Wins Award

James Lawrence Pagano, 18, son of Michelangelo and Patricia Pagano, of San Mateo, has been awarded the California State Fireman's Association scholarship for academic achievement, according to word received this week by his parents.

Pagano, who was graduated this month from San Mateo High School, submitted his academic credentials to five universities — Santa Clara, Drake, Detroit, Washington & Lee and George Washington — and was accepted by all five.

He has chosen to attend George Washington University in Washington, D.C. because of its outstanding school of journalism and political science, he reports; his goal is a master's degree in journalism.

In addition to the state scholarship, Pagano has been awarded the San Mateo Times "Most Valuable Staffer (American Newspaper Association) award; the San Mateo Elks Club award; the Bank of America achievement award in English; and Gemco's Scholarship Foundation award.

The San Mateo Fire Department was particularly jubilant about the state award. Jim's dad is a veteran fireman with 22 years with the local department. Others in the family, who live at 1728 Roberta Dr., include Rosellen 17, a San Mateo High student; George, 15, also San Mateo High; and Mary, 12, Bayside School.

$100,000 Fire Rips School In Redwood

A fire that may have started from combustion of some cleaning fluid left in the sun is believed to have caused an estimated $100,000 damage to Lincoln School in Redwood City on Friday, according to Redwood City firemen.

This was the worst fire in the Redwood City Elementary School District's history, bringing out 49 firemen and seven engines, although firemen said not all the equipment was needed.

No one was in the school at the time the fire was reported at 4:14 p.m. and Fire Inspector Eugene Paridy ruled out arson, although children had been reported throwing fireworks onto the roof earlier.

Tracing so far has gone to a container of detergent used to clean a wooden filing cabinet in the elbow of the L-shaped building at Whipple and Oakdale Avenues.

The west end of the building suffered heavy fire damage as the flames had worked their way into the attic and down both wings of the hallway, firemen said. Most of the structural damage was in the attic, where firemen had to cut holes in the roof to get at the fire.

There also was smoke damage throughout. The school is 57 years old.

LAST CUP — This scene is one that may be a thing of the past for San Bruno's city employes, assuming the city council adopts City Manager Gerald Minford's budget recommendation to supply city employes with coffee—urns and thermos too—in order to cut "start-up and take-down time" losses. Minford budgeted $1,500 for the coffee and equipment purchases to halt restaurant coffee breaks by employes.

One City's Solution

The Stretched Coffee Break

By BOB PETERSON

Councilman Neil Christal referred to it as a $1,500 experiment.

Councilman Tony Governale said he sees "problems on this that just aren't going to quit."

But, according to San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford, there is "too much start-up and take-down time" involved in employe restaurant coffee breaks.

That's why he's recommending that the city provide not only the coffee, but urns and thermos bottles, to keep employes out of restaurants during coffee breaks.

His recommendation is one of many items discussed briefly during budget study sessions.

As to the proposal that the city go into the coffee-making and dispersing business, Minford emphasized that it "isn't a blanket condemnation of employes." He said that the cost of a "stretched coffee break is tremendous," and a "very costly way of working."

Minford was quick to point out that the "stretched coffee breaks" were not deliberately done. He noted that, with street crews for example, just going through the motions of picking up tools, heading for a restaurant, having coffee, then driving back to a work site and unloading the tools again takes considerably more time than the allotted 15 minutes for a coffee break.

"That's something (the lost time) I have to correct," said Minford.

He said he would have preferred the opportunity to have discussed the matter with department heads in advance "so employes know exactly what's taking place before it happens."

Minford said he realized he was attempting to change a tradition, and that it would not be easy. "We'll have to apply it uniformly throughout the city," he said, emphasizing the city would be supplying coffee for all employes. Those in the field would be supplied with a thermos.

"What about donuts?" asked Councilman John Barnard, apparently concerned the proposal might mushroom into something more than the city could handle.

Governale cited problems of policing. He indicated also it would create personnel problems. "He's talking about a total change of habit," said Governale of Minford's proposal.

"Discipline is what it is," said Mayor Margaret Kozkowski.

Councilman George Corey, noting that although it is the city which places the empolye in isolated areas, said, "We're entitled to a fair amount of work from them."

Christal said "It's a $1,500 experiment. Let's see how it works."

D.C. Driver Booked After Matean Hurt

A Daly City man was booked on a felony drunken driving charge in San Mateo shortly after 5 p.m. Wednesday following an intersection collision at the entrance to San Mateo Community college. A 19-year-old San Mateo girl was injured.

The accident occurred on West Hillsdale Boulevard and CSM Drive.

The victim was identified by police as Valerie Edith Appleton of 1263 Parrott Drive. She was taken to Kaiser Hospital by ambulance, treated for concussion and released.

The driver, Arthur Herbert Mackes, 68, of 840 Higate Drive, Daly City, failed a roadside sobriety test according to investigating officer Lawrence Schork. The driver was arrested and booked at police headquarters for felony drunken driving. Bail was set at $500 by Judge Thomas B. Caldwell. Mackes' court date is to be set.

According to Officer Schork's investigation, the accident occurred at the four-way stop intersection. Miss Appleton said she was westbound on CSM Drive on her way home. She said she had stopped at the arterial and started across, when the car driven by Mackes appeared unexpectedly from her left and crashed broadside into her car.

Schork said Mackes fell into the iceplant ground cover at one point in his efforts to perform the four roadside tests. Police said Mackes told them he was on his way home when the other car ran him off the road.

S.F. Airport Facing Fines

Officials at San Francisco International Airport yesterday were ordered to correct their water pollution problems by Aug. 26 or face $6,000-a-day fines or bans against any increases in their sewage discharges.

The order was made by the Regional Water Quality Control Board following a hearing in Hayward.

The verdict was considered a victory for local environmentalists. Larry Green, a San Bruno sports fisherman, first reported the polluting of deadly toxins and human wastes into the San Francisco Bay.

Mount Bruno Hearing Set

A public hearing was scheduled by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday for July 31 at 2 p.m. on the proposal to establish a county service area for San Bruno Mountain.

The procedure results from the action of the County Local Agency Formation Commission earlier this year keeping the mountain unincorporated for planning purposes, with the intention to eventually turn it over to Brisbane for development.

Consequently, the county feels it must provide intensified police, fire, water, sewer and other services to the unincorporated area.

Last week's action bf the board was brief, with no indication of whether the Crocker Land Company, which owns most of the mountain property, will be opposed.

Mills High Nursery Classes

Who teaches who in nursery school? Do high school student-interns in child development classes learn from the little people — the 2-to-5-year-olds? Or do the little ones learn from the interns? The answer seems to be that they all learn from each other, judging by the experience at Mills High.

Dianne, a junior, can help Julie, age 3, string macaroni, and she can repeatedly count the macaroni pieces for Julie . . . 1, 2, 3, 4 . . . 12, 13, 14 . . . and eventually, Dianne is going to learn that Julie can grasp the number concept of her age — 3, maybe 4, possibly 5 — but, that is probably a far as she is going to count the macaroni pieces and remember the sequence of numbers.

In the course of this interchange, however, Julie has been practicing her skills with rote numbers and exercising the muscles of her fingers and hands, which will eventually enable her to push the string through the macaroni quickly and accurately. These exchanges between students are typical of the ways in which each learns intellectual and physical skills in the relaxed, semi-structured atmosphere of the nursery school.

Mills High this year became the third San Mateo Union High School District school to add a nursery school to its curriculum. San Mateo was the forerunner with a child development course and laboratory eight years ago. Aragon has had a nursery school lab for the past three years.

Director at Mills is Bonnie Fugitt, who, with Jean Daiker, homemaking department head, has developed a learning situation for both teen-agecs and preschool children. Requests for enrollment of the pre-school male population are high, but as yet no Mills' boys have attempted to invade the nursery school classes. Mrs. Fugitt and Mrs. Daiker, however, have encouraged male enrollment especially from the Bachelor Foods all-male cooking classes.

The child development course offered at Mills is a one-semester course open to 11th and 12th graders. It is designed to give students the opportunity to study human life from conception through early childhood. During the first nine weeks of the course, students pursue several objectives, including understanding how conception occurs; the embryonic and fetal stages of pre-natal development, and childbirth; the basic physical growth stages in childhood; awareness of emotional and psychological development during childhood; and observing and analyzing the behavior of nursery school children. During this preparation time, students view films, hear speakers, observe at local nursery schools and kindergartens, collect ideas for projects and games suitable for 3-to-5-year olds, study and collect suitable equipment, toys and materials to add to the nursery school's project collection. They also must develop at least three project ideas for use in nursery school and construct working models to demonstrate that they can teach the preschoolers how to make such things as clay dough, egg-carton caterpillars, macaroni jewelry, seasonal decorations and so on. They must plan one outdoor game, field trip, speaker or entertainment for the forthcoming nursery school session.

Once the 6-week nursery school session has started, the student must be prepared to execute all of her projects, to participate in weekly discussions and evaluation of the nursery school, to be responsible for all assigned teaching activities, and to direct the school at least one day of the session. After the nursery school session is finished, each student must either write an analysis of one child or a comparison of two children in the school.

When the nursery school session is under way, Tuesdays through Fridays, the high school students rotate in groups of 10. During the first hour, the nursery is staffed by a team of 10 students working "on the floor" with the children. Another 10 are behind the scenes, preparing project material, snacks or other food for the day, cleaning up or observing. At the start of the second hour, another class of 20 girls arrives to replace them. A student director is on the floor at all times, observing, looking for trouble spots, directing the other interns to areas where they are needed, and generally keeping the nursery on an even emotional and functional level.

This first year, the school's center court has been used for the nursery's outside activity. In the planning stages is an outdoor area with proper fencing and outdoor play equipment that will be used permanently for the nursery school's play yard.

Mrs. Daiker is particularly enthusiastic about the expanding "training-for-parenthood" courses at Mills. "Since government funding is still available for this kind of education," she said, "I hope that even more courses will be offered throughout the district in this field." She also feels that the child development course and nursery school experience at the high school level can provide career orientation for girls who wish to go on to 2 years of junior college and obtain licensing for their own child care centers or teaching in nursery schools. Or, they may take a 4-year college course and train other young people in child care and development.

Bribe Trial Jury Picked

A jury of seven women and five men has been empaneled to hear testimony in the Redwood City trial of two men accused of paying an undercover police agent a total of $5,800 in bribes for advance warnings of raides by the county's Organized Crime Unit.

Defendants are Attillio Joe Spagnuolo, 41-year-old Millbrae bartender, and Ronald Sacco, 30-year-old South San Francisco teamster.

Both men are expected to testify during the two-week trial before Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe in Redwood City. Authorities claim the defendants paid monthly bribes to an undercover agent for advance warning of pending bookmaking arrests and raids in the North County.

Residents Fight Blaze

Two Pacificans used a garden hose to extinguish a kitchen fire on Monday afternoon. Although the effort stopped the spread of the blaze, the kitchen was totally destroyed, firemen said.

Dominick Mullins and John Kallen rushed to the 1162 Fassler Dr. residence, after another neighbor had called firemen to the blaze.

Firemen, who praised the efforts of the two men, said new occupants were in the process of moving into the home. They were in another room when the fire started, officials said.

Et Cetera

OH, THE WINNERS laughed and told jokes . . . and most of the losers didn't even show up at the Tuesday night swearing-in festivities held at the JESD Administration building in Daly City.

TODAY IS THE FOURTH, and we look for fireworks be in the school district Thursday before the regular meeting. A personnel session has been called at 7 p.m., prior to the regular meeting. It calls for "action," and we'll wager it concerns the status of Supt. Frank L. Greenwood.

WE ARRIVE AT this sinple deduction simply by noting, with no emotion whatever, that in our many years of being a board watcher (bored watcher?) we have never witnessed an administrative head going on vacation when a new board is being sworn in and officials being re-arranged. This may be the proverbial "Straw that Broke The Camel's Back."

ALL THOSE GALA plans for the September opening of BART's Daly City terminus station are for naught. The station ain't gonna open until November — if then. Frankly, if I were in charge of the affair, I'd order spring lamb instead of barbequed beef.

THE MISSION MERCHANTS are known to think ahead — far ahead. In their last meeting at a Colma area restaurant (where the food was so bad we dare not mention its name) the subject of Christmas decorations for Mission street was discussed.

"This may be a bit premature," Prez Vince Merlo said in the understatement of the year, "but we should talk about decorations along Mission street for the holidays." Each merchant will be asked to participate and prizes will be given to the best display.

BY THE BY — There will be a BART commemorative medal sold for $2 when the line to Daly City is completed. It's a good way to raise money — but for whom?

THERE HAVE BEEN two fires in dumps operated by Gus Piedemonte and Roy Franzoia in recent weeks — one in Colma near the Serra Shopping Center and the other in a dump behind Cypress Hills Golf Court adjacent that multi-million dollar mobile home park. Speaking of the park, the people living there are furious over the dust clouds and, during the last fire, the fumes that hovered overhead. Cause of the fires is still undetermined. Someone called the Bay Area Air Pollution Board on the last fire and inspector Tony Mirado cited the operators.

IF DALY CITY GETS San Bruno Mountain, and it is trying very hard to get it, the addition of the Crocker Industrial area would add some $17 million in assessed valuation immediately to the city's $148 million tax rolls — not to mention another $810,000 in various sales taxes and related taxes. This does not include whatever development goes on top.

THE FLAT OF OUR SWORD to those kids who stuffed that poor dog into a mailbox at the corner of Higate and Ridefield avenues in Daly City about 8:30 p.m. the other day.

They go down in my book of things that bug me badly; such as firecrackers being touched off one after the other weeks before the Fourth (and days after) while cops look the other way; shopping carts allowed to "meander" onto lawns, sidewalks and into parked cars and are allowed to clutter the landscape sometimes for days until the responsible market sends someone around to get them, and; people who let their dogs out for walks on someone else's sidewalk and-or lawn.

HERE'S HOW TO GET MEMBERS — The Westlake Estates Association, that small band of homeowners who decided the Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association (WSIA) just wasn't doing enough for them and formed their own group, now give new members a beautiful bouquet of flowers, compliments of Bernie Kallman Florist (Bernie's a member) and a couple of jugs of bubbly from Dan Ravetti of Westlake Liquors just for joining. (Hey, fellas, how about an application). Ted Tronotf is the new prez.

THEY APPARENTLY SAW their duty and they did it. The Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association (WSIA) Board of Directors has proved its value in protecting homeowners in their area. That complaint from a housewife on Beechwood Drive about a neighbor that built a deck which allowed them to peer into her living room and for her to do nothing but peer back at them on their deck (it blotted out her view) have decided, at their June 25 meeting that the deck is not in keeping with the WSIA's covenants and . . . Well, that will be decided upon at another meeting sometime in July. They could order the deck be torn down, modified (cut back) or . . . But it IS refreshing to know that they consider the reason many folks buy a home — the view — is important. Reminds me of the Japanese homeowner in Tokyo who had a skyscraper built next door to him and sued because it took away his share of the sunshine. He won!

WESTLAKE SHOPPING CENTER's Gene Perry has told of the center's greatest promotion yet — two tickets to Hong Kong via China Airlines, plus $200 in spending money. Perry says in the past the center has given out merchandising certificates to its patrons, but this month — July — the drawing will be for the tao round trip tickets to that Shoppers' Paradise in the Pacific, plus a number of $25 merchandise certificates. All you need to be is 18 years (or older), walk into a store and say "gimme a drawing coupon and I better win, see." Of course it might be better if you're nice Nothingto buy.

'We Don't Accept Conduct Problems' in Cap Program

"When kids have a history of failing most of their school lives, we have to build their skills so they have confidence in their ability to function, to learn in the classroom. But we also have to develop a new self-image in most students before they believe they can learn." This is the view of Gerry Arrigoni, a remedial reading specialist at Capuchino High School who last February was selected to head the "Inner-School," Capuchino's answer for the student who is failing a specific course or who is generally failing to learn very much in any class.

The Inner-School teaches basic reading, writing and math that was not learned before coming to high school, and high school-level U.S. history, science and social studies. The school has four teachers, three student teachers, 74 students and two rooms. It operates in conjunction with the regular school and holds classes the first four hours of the school day.

Arrigoni and Jane Fenn, Bonnie Volkman and Ann Jennings of the social science department work with Inner-School students on a one-to-one basis because each student has a particular learning problem like no other student's. Students may be enrolled from one to four periods, depending on their needs. If the problem is simply failing one class, then the student will be absent from his regular classes for only one period to receive help in that subject. If the student's skills need to be raised to the high school level, then he might be in Inner-School all morning, returning to regular classes in the afternoon.

Teaching in the Inner-School is very much individualized and very informal. While one room is being used for a film on American history, the other room might be used by only two students and a teacher studying science; simultaneously, a freshman social science group might be viewing slides in a free room nearby. Teaching emphasizes the basic skills.

Students are either referred to Inner-School for help, or the student himself seeks admission. Even if a student has been referred by a teacher or counselor, he does not have to enroll. Arrigoni points out that the school could serve many more students, but for its voluntary status.

"And we don't accept behavior problems," he noted. "We have taken a few, but only because they had real learning problems and asked to be here. But any kid who is learning, not failing, but acting up in the class, doesn't belong here. We are not a school for behavior problems — we are a school for students with poor skills in basic subjects — reading, writing and math — and who need individualized programs to bring them up to the level of their peers so they can get back into the regular school program."

Such a student is Mark, who is perhaps the school's most enthusiastic. "I like it — I like it," he said. "Just look at my report card, as compared to '71 and '72, and see how much I've improved! I'm getting all the help I need now." Other students, while not as enthusiastic, are usually ready to admit that they would be failing a particular course if they were not receiving the individual instruction of Inner-School.

Arrigoni is planning to conduct Inner-School on a full-time basis next fall. "But we will be fighting for teachers," he says. "This year, we have operated on a 4-hour-a-day basis, with teachers who had a free period or two to give to Inner-School, but, next year, we will have difficulty finding enough teachers to staff a full day."

S.S.F. Flood Control Project

Putting Money Where Mouth Is

By BOB PETERSON

The city of South San Francisco is ready to begin flood control work on Colma Creek immediately, and has put its money where its mouth is — $355,000, to be exact.

That is the amount City Atty. John Noonan last week said the city was prepared to "put into the proper hands" so that interim flood control work can begin immediately.

Noonan promised the money at an afternoon meeting of the advisory committee of the Colma Creek Flood Control Zone in South San Francisco City Hall.

"Time is critical," said Noonan. "We want to clear the path (for a complete flood control project) whether this interim work (using the $355,000) fits in (to the over-all project) or not."

The city attorney said his city's officials were anxious to start a flood control project immediately. Any necessary agreements or arrangements for reimbursing South San Francisco any part of the money it intends to advance can be worked out at a later date, he said. "Otherwise we'll spend the next 60 days debating credit."

The $355,000 figure was arrived at because that is the amount Wilsey and Ham, engineering consulting firm hired by the county, said was necessary to do "the absolute bare minimum interim improvements."

According to the Wilsey and Ham firm, the money will allow for four specific improvements. It will:

—Remove a concrete slab and deepen the channel between Linden Avenue and the Southern Pacific Railroad bridge.

—Do remedial improvements on the Linden Avenue bridge.

—Excavate the trapazoidal channel between Spruce Avenue and Linden Avenue.

—Replace or modify the Spruce Avenue culvert with a bridge.

The firm also listed two other "immediate relief" items that could be accomplished prior to the construction of the ultimate flood control project.

These included the replacement of the Oak Avenue culvert with a bridge, at an estimated cost of $390,000; and construct channel improvements through the Treasure Island Trailer Court, at a cost estimated at $240,000.

The firm noted that even with all six improvements, the flooding, as occurred in the October 1972 storm, would not be eliminated completely. But the improvements would prevent increase in flows below Bayshore Freeway.

Deputy County Engineer V. K. Sanders, consultant to the flood control district, said, however, that it still would be necessary to have a public hearing before such work could begin — even under the circumstances outlined by Noonan.

William C. Hern, representing the Peninsula Manufacturers' Association, pointed out that there is a meeting already set with the Board of Supervisors on July 12 concerning Colma Creek matters.

He suggested that the prescheduled Colma Creek agenda item to be discussed "should be broad enough to cover this subject." Norm Hansen of Wilsey and Ham said if the money were available, the interim project could start in "a couple of weeks."

Indications were that pressures would be applied at whatever points necessary to get moving on the interim projects, but officially apparently nothing will happen at least until the July 12 meeting of the County Board of Supervisors.

Meanwhile, at the South San Francisco meeting, Sanders reviewed the status of the flood control program and gave a recommendation he said the County Flood Control District thought was the best project.

Sanders said that input was still being sought from the five North County Cities involved, but that any extensive proposals may require its "advocate" to pay "excess costs."

His recommendation was that, because of economic reasons, the only option to consider was "open channel treatment" all the way along the creek bed. He said that two specific proposals were in mind, one costing $6.6 million, the other $8.4 million.

"We recommend the $8.4 million option, if it can be financed," said Sanders.

Vast Differences in U.S.-Europe Cities

James Halley

'Megalopser'

"Ich bin ein Berliner" could thrill the residents of that city. "Ich bin ein Megalopser" may never arouse such passions.

These phrases emphasize a quantum difference between the cities of America and of Europe. Their status and function are vastly different.

From before the time of the Greek city-states, cities have been central to history. To this day, historians claim that the flow of the human story has risen from important communities, and that to trace societies and nations, the evolution of cities must be understood.

Modern European communities enforce the point. City boundaries are no fiction in Amsterdam, Heidelberg, Bern, Cologne and even industrial Dusseldorf. In a trice, one passes from the last block of apartment houses to green fields and cows. There exists a plain line of demarcation between one community and the next.

Furthermore, the inhabited areas are bound together by common history and tradition. Families tend to remain in a single community for generations, and religious, economic and social ties appear closely related to geographics.

American communities have, in our time, developed in an entirely different pattern. Cities have lines, but no identifiable geography. The boundary between San Francisco and Daly City is indistinguishable unless one looks at a map; Pasadena and Los Angeles merge; and San Jose and San Rafael are part of the same mass of roads and structures.

Americans, moreover, are mobile. Families move from one place to another in such numbers and so rapidly that phone books are partially obsolete before they are distributed. Once settled, families think nothing of travelling miles to work and for social purposes.

Thus, local identity and loyalty are hard to come by in America. Unlike Europeans, amorphous. One grain of humankind can replace another in Azusa, Omana, Santa Rosa, and Levittown. Ties are with a type of American community, and a family living inside one kind of district can easily accommodate to similar environments across the land.

What is more, geography within the United States has lost a large part of its significance. Not only are our people like grains of sand, but our newly built physical facilities are so similar across the land that they could easily be exchanged and substituted for one another.

Mobile America has wrought, in this manner, an extraordinary new relationship of man to his environment and to those about him. The complete metamorphosis from the importance of individual cities to a new kind of notion in which geography is only incidental is not yet complete. We continue to recognize, for example, meaningless boundaries for purposes of governing ourselves.

A visitor to Europe understandably mourns the passing, in America, of some of the pleasant things about the old way. There one still sees highly developed inner city rail transit and downtown business districts that serve the shopping needs of an entire community. Local differences in architecture and custom add color and charm.

Remorse is soon replaced, however, with the realization that some of the less attractive limitations of the old way have also passed. The apartment has been replaced by the home and the window box by the family garden. With our expanded physical mobility has come extraordinary freedom to move from one job to another and from one place to another within our social structure.

We have, for the first time, created a new kind of citizen and a different type of society. Men once lived in tribes, later on the land, and still later within fixed clusters called cities. The new form seems to be evolving a mobile man who is in the geographic sense a regional or national citizen, and whose impact on history has yet to be measured.

Samuel Chandler

Good Words

Oh say can you see by the dawn's early light

What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?

Whose broad stripes and bright stars thru the perilous fight

O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming?

And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,

Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.

That song! That difficult song with its high notes and its 2nd, 3rd, and 4th verses that no one sings and no one cares what they mean. Why do we use it?

"The Star-Spangled Banner" is a good anthem for Americans. Like the United States itself, it is complicated yet full of the ideals of a pulsating ever-changing people. Like the American system it is cumbersome in composition, yet created by the blood of patriots and able to hold the affections of public spirited people.

FOR ALL THE problems it presents to singers, our national anthem is full of emotion to lead right-thinking people to realize that we live in a land where the liberties of men are everywhere evident, in spite of the prattle of the discontents who have spoken too loudly and too often during the last decade.

Singing the "Star-Spangled Banner" should lead us to the neighborliness and good will expressed by the most articulate persons our country has produced.

Such a person was William Rose Benet who asks, "What does American mean?" The answers he found make an excellent piece for 4th of July reading:

America means, good neighbors. It meant that long before we have a national good-neighbor policy. Good neighbors are neighbors who are not only people of good will toward you, but people who also have their own self-respect and their own independence. In general they're against anyone's being pushed around.

American means respect for the scientific search for abstract truth, but it also means that you can believe anything you choose, provided it does not interfere with the well-being of your neighbors. If you choose to believe that the Moon is made of green cheese, in America nobody's going to stop you; though they may think you're mistaken, and may argue with you.

America means free moving around. Not always in time of war—and sometimes because of unfair conditions we hadn't foreseen. But in peace time, and just because they want to, Americans move around a good deal. They can change their employment, they can choose where they want to live.

American means that your family may have had rather more than their share of money for years, or that your family may have begun on the Lower East Side or they were New Englanders or Southerners or Middle-Westerners or from the Pacific Coast, but what you actually are, as a human being goes a lot farther than what your family may have been. You've got to prove what's in yourself if you are an American.

America means the Great Experiment which is still going on. It means the Great Possibility.

America is You can do it.

IF THERE doesn't come a lift to your heart and a catch in your breath when you read those words and you think of all that they can mean, why then, I'm very much afraid that you're not an American.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

Can A Film Be BAD AND Entertaining?

There are two films, "Oklahoma Crude" and "The Last Of Sheila," currently playing on the Peninsula I'd call "schlock." That means unbelievable, unrealistic, overplayed and commercial. But in terms of film entertainment I must confess I enjoyed them immensely.

"Oklahome Crude" refers to the oil that Faye Dunaway is drilling her wildcat well for but in more sarcastic terms it could refer to the character she plays, specifically the language she uses.

One could hardly expect a lone woman, distrustful of men, including her father (John Mills) who ran out on her and her mother and George C. Scott, an itinerat laborer who risks life and limb in helping her holdout against the big oil companies, to affect a gentility. The point of the story is that she acts tough but is vulnerable, as is Scott who admires her tenacity, if not her vulgarity.

Stanley Kramer claims to have made it as an "entertainment" not a "message" picture. I take his word and his product for that. Jack Palance plays a real meanie, who has hatred and vindication written all over him so you expect violence and unfairness from that quarter. In fact, the entire film is predictable from Scott and Dunaway softening under the strain of their harassment from gun-toting oil company employes. But that's the essence of this genre, not to strain with psychological motivation.

The settings are impressive and although it was shot in Stockton, the film has an Oklahoma authenticity created by animated background skylines of wooden oil derricks.

Dunaway shows a lot of grit although the image may not increase her popularity with conservative filmgoers. Scott is sardonic as usual but mellow and compassionate with a tough guy — soft heart appeal.

The premise of "The Last Of Sheila" is intriguing: James Coburn has been widowed when his beautiful wife, Sheila is killed by a hit and run driver. With her inherited fortune, he buys an elegantly appointed yacht (called Sheila) and invites six friends aboard for a week of fun and games, all evil and destructive. They happen to have all been at the same party at which Sheila was killed and we're led to believe he knows who the murderer is.

Nick And Lorraine Gust Have Double Duties

Nick Gust is an unusual man who has long been a restaurateur of the finest order. He owns Nick's restaurant and lounge and The Moonraker, an elegant restaurant located across the street from Nick's. Both afford a sweeping view of the turbulent Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Nick is a man who has his hand in many enterprises at once, and he's always amazing us with his new exploits. Also handling affairs within both restaurants with her professional friendliness is his lovely wife, Lorraine. The troubleshooting manager, who oversees both Gust businesses, is Josef Mollich. He's the man to call for reservations for your special parties. His European personality has done a great deal to enhance relationships with the dining public . . . With the "Where shall we take our out-of-town guests for dinner?" question popping up regularly at this time of the year, one suggestion is Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. It's cozy, comfortable and plush, and the dinners are rave getters. Dessert suggestion for those who can't resist: Maerd Eip (cheese pie that defies "No" to more than one helping). Such entrees as Broiled Mahi Mahi Almondine and Prime Ribs of Beef are clicking big with Scotty Campbell's discerning clientele.

POPULAR — One of the Peninsula's most well-liked cocktail waitresses is Helen Sayer, at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. The statuesque miss, who has been here since it opened five years ago, was once featured on a menu cover for a famous San Francisco restaurant. She's "Miss Personality" who serves you the hefty cocktail hour drinks and the unusual and tasty hot hors d'oeuvres featured at the restaurant daily.

Romano's Features Pizzas Of All Sizes

Pizzas of all sizes are available at Enrico Romano's Italian restaurant, situated in picturesque Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Enrico prides himself on his small, medium or large pizzas, and is known to his friends and fans as the "King of the Anchovies." And you owe it to yourself to try his Italian dishes — served full course or a la carte. Portions are heaping and the prices right . . . Uranus is now headliner nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, at the Whiskey Hill, in downtown Burlingame. This is a return engagement for the band, which has appeared here frequently during the past few months. Performing in concert this Sunday night will be "Is." . . . Business affairs are made more enjoyable by a luncheon date at Saluto's in Burlingame. Luncheon guests greeted by Hostess Betty Burton find the atmosphere relaxing and the view enchanting. Fifteen minutes from the heart of the financial district, Saluto's offers a specialized luncheon menu . . . The outdoor patio at Woodlake Joe's has been seeing a lot of action these warm summer days. A Monday gathering of 25 persons enjoyed a private luncheon on the restaurant's garden terrace.

Located across from Nevada's capitol, Ormsby House offers over 200 comfortable rooms overlooking the Sierras or the mountain desert . . . The rockin' Band Stand has expanded to a four-nights-a-week operation. There is live music and dancing on Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, a schedule which will remain in effect throughout the summer months. Thursday night entertainment will be offered within the next couple of weeks. Appearing this Friday and Saturday nights will be Universe. Slated for the Sunday night concerts are Daryl and The Derricks . . . Friends are still entertaining at The Putter, a Burlingame nitery offering live music and dancing seven nights a week. Be sure to try the dollar buffet luncheon which is presented daily, Mondays through Fridays. . . . The Platter, a new restaurant in San Mateo's Shoreview area, offers a great deal more than moderate prices. The dinner menu is quite extensive, with prime rib and a spare rib dinner being two big favorites.

3 Awards Due County Government

San Mateo County will receive three national awards next month at the annual conventions of the National Association of Counties (NACO) and the National Association of County Information Officers (NACIO) at Dallas, Texas.

The county has been informed that the special report prepared by the county library has won first place in its category in the 1973 awards competition of the NACIO.

The report, prepared by two library employes, Dennis Nolan and Evelyn Helmen, is in the form of an illustrated booklet and is entitled, "The Library Is for Everyone." It was distributed to the public to explain the functions and operations of the county library.

San Mateo County Public Information Officer Alice Holmes will accept the award on behalf of the county.

At the NACO convention, the county will accept awards for progressive efforts in organization of the East Palo Alto Municipal Council and for the county's disaster preparedness program.

The award concerning organization of the East Palo Alto Municipal Council, which was formed by the county five years ago as a quasi-city council advisory group to the Board of Supervisors, is to recognize the program which demonstrates an "improvement in county government services to its citizens."

The award for the disaster preparedness program results from the week-long training program for city and county officials organized and conducted last year by William Hinchcliff, administrator of the San Mateo County Area Disaster Office.

The training session was designed to provide coordinated response to riots, civil disorders and countywide disasters, such as earthquakes, plane crashes and other emergencies.

CSM Data Equipment Lease OKd

The San Mateo Community College District Board of Trustees Wednesday approved a lease of instructional data processing equipment for the College of San Mateo.

The lease was awarded to the Computer Leasing Co. of San Francisco at a total annual cost of just over $44,000.

The decision will establish an instructional data processing program at CSM, effective in the fall. It will enable CSM students to use an IBM 360-30 system.

Of the 11 vendors contacted about submitting bids, only two actually responded with offers.

In other action, the trustees:

—Approved acceptance of a $135,000 grant from the federal government for purposes of conducting a multicultural institute at Canada College in Redwood City.

—Learned that Skyline College in San Bruno has acquired free about 12 acres of former Coast Guard land adjacent to the school. The property will provide the school with additional parking and two buildings.

—Learned that school districts in the City of San Mateo which consolidated last April's election with the city's own election saved about $4,200.

Alert Clerk Aids Capture Of Suspects

An alert employe at the International Inn, South San Francisco, concerned about the use of a possibly stolen Credit card Thursday led police to the arrest of four persons on various narcotics charges and a cache narcotics charges and a cache of cocaine and heroin.

Booked were Robert Warren Fansler, 26, and his wife Leslie Ann, 24, both of Morgan Hill, and Mark J. Golston, 26, and Robert Farrell, 24, both of Omaha, Nebr.

Charges included defrauding an inkeeper, use of a stolen credit card, possession of heroin, possession of cocaine for sale and possession of narcotics paraphernalia. Bail was set at $50,000 for each of the four, police said.

According to the police report, the department received a call at about 3 p.m. that a stolen credit card was being used.

Detectives Miff Singleton and Tony Smith and Officer Russell Muse responded. The police located the four suspects in a room at the hotel.

Inside the room, police said, they found a set of small weighing scales, $3,000 worth of cocaine, $800 worth of heroin, narcotics paraphernalia, and a "large amount" of money. The exact amount was not made available.

Boy Hurt in Bike Crash In San Bruno

An 8-year-old San Bruno boy sustained a possible concussion and multiple abrasions Thursday when he lost control of his 5-speed bicycle and struck his head on a curb. He is "under observation" at the Peninsula Hospital.

Police said Gerald Vincent Palmer, of 863 Mills Ave., was southbound on Greenwood Way — which is, police said, about a 10 per cent grade -- when he lost control and was unable to stop at the Fleetwood Drive intersection.

Police said the youth started yelling when he was unable to stop. According to reports, he was traveling at approximately 25 miles an hour. Police said the youth attempted to make a left turn onto Fleetwood, lost control of the bike, fell off and struck his head on the curb.

Police listed the cause of the accident as "excessive rate of speed" and noted that the "vehicle" was "carried away."

Bruno Girl Hit by Car

Five-year-old Mary Ann Jabin, daughter of Mrs. Anna Jabin, of 1141 Glenview Ave., San Bruno, was said in satisfactory condition at Peninsula Hospital after being struck by a car June 26.

According to the hospital report, Mary Ann was admitted at 4:25 p.m. for possible head injury and multiple contusions.

Police said the girl was struck by an automobile driven by Paul Michael Averiett, 18, of 530 Renia, Pacifica, when she ran out from behind a parked car.

According to the police report, Averiett was southbound about 25 m.p.h. on Glenview Drive, about 300 feet north of Claremont Drive, when the girl ran out into the street and hit the side of the Averiett vehicle.

Corn, Pears, Tomatoes Near Peak Supply

Sweet corn, now in good supply from the Bakersfield area, makes an excellent barbeque treat wrapped in foil. This year's major variety has beautiful coloring and is considered excellent.

Supplies of sweet corn from the Coachella Valley terminated last week and Bakersfield is now harvesting. These shipments are expected to decrease next week, with Brentwood production entering the market at that time.

Yellow sweet corn, as opposed to white corn, is regarded by the experts as superior. The yellow corn has a better taste, appearance and greater nutritive value. It provides a fair amount of vitamin A and contributes carbohydrates.

For good buys, the ears should be well filled with bright, plump, juicy, milky kernels just firm enough to offer slight resistance to pressure. Avoid ears that have dented kernels — a sign of "dry back" which gives the corn a tough texture.

Corn should be refrigerated and eaten the day it is purchased. This delays the conversion of sugar to starch in the kernels.

It may look like you're getting less for your money when you buy pears next week, but it's only a skin-deep illusion. Bartlett pears now from the Sacramento River district may have a little more insect damage this year because of lower pesticide usage, but the fruit itself is just as succulent and wholesome as in previous years.

Growers had to decide which insect was to live, as they do each year. They chose the rust mite, which provides food for a predator insect that preys on the fruit-devouring mite. But in his lifetime the rust mite leaves small, rusty-brown spot on the pears. However, the quality of the fruit itself is not affected.

Pears with these brown spots, hardly noticeable to most people, are down-graded if the spot is the size of a half-dollar or larger. About five years ago the weather gave these fruits similar brown spots, called russet, and consumers responded with extremely heavy buying. The same might occur this season.

In compliance with county health regulations, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and because of the unpredictable weather in the early season, pesticide usage on the pear crop was minimized this year. The result is a lower yield of the fruit and slightly higher prices.

This year's Bartletts are about the same size as last year's. Peak volume from the Sacramento River district is expected to last from mid-July through August, then volumes will increase from the Lake County area.

The summer Bartlett pear is by far the most popular variety grown. The skin of a ripe Bartlett pear is bright yellow, sometimes with a red blush, and the flesh is very tender.

Since pears are picked green, they must be ripened in the retailer's storage rooms or at home. For best ripening, put about three green pears in a paper sack or ventilated plastic bag and place on top of your refrigerator where the temperature is warm and even. Two or three days later, when they yield to gentle pressure, your pears are ready to eat.

The "love apple" as the romantic French identified the tomato, is now in peak production. Harvesting in the Imperial Valley has ended and this week the Cutler-Fresno area is expected to be at its highest production. Mid-July is the best time to buy tomatoes when the Stockton district and eastern states begin harvesting. The San Diego County area is now producing also.

Because of the heavy winter and late spring rains, tomato production started slowly. However, with the warmer nights and higher temperatures an upsurge in production is expected.

Quality is expected to be excellent, with some small sizes to start, but increasing rapidly.

"Vine-ripe" tomatoes are left on the plant longer, resulting in considerable improvement in taste and higher prices. Long-distance shipping demands mature, but green-colored tomatoes. Choose red, ripe, firm tomatoes for eating or refrigeration. For later usage, select pale pink tomatoes and ripen them at home.

A survey has shown that the vitamins A and C, calcium and iron, are abundant in summer fruits and vegetables. Tomatoes are a rich source of vitamins A and C plus other nutrients in smaller amounts — and one medium sized fresh tomato contains only 35 calories.

A cool summer time dish many homemakers like to serve consists of big, cold and juicy tomatoes, cored and stuffed with tuna salad.

Canteloupe Is Strong On Vitamins

By GEORGE M. BRIGGS, Ph.D.
Nutritionist

An average serving of cantaloupe provides over half of a day's allowance of vitamin A and C. In addition to providing good nutrition it is a favorite food of many people.

The cantaloupe season is now getting into full swing here in California. The supply will soon be at its peak, making it one of our best food buys.

Few, if any, fruits are so rich in nutrient value and at the same time so low in calories. This makes it especially useful in low-calorie diets.

For persons who want actual figures, a 3½ ounce serving (100 grams) of cantaloupe — about a three inch slice — contains only 30 calories and yet povides about 3400 units of vitamin A activity and over 30 milligrams of vitamin C. This size serving also contains appreciable amounts of all B vitamins, except vitamin B-12, along with potassium and important levels of trace elements such as iron. There are more than 1.3 milligrams of iron for every 100 calories of melon — a large piece.

Melons of a lighter golden color, or light green, such as the casaba or the honeydew melon have much less vitamin A value, though they are still a good source of vitamin C. The deep golden color of the melon is chiefly carotene, the pigment which is converted to vitamin A in the body.

Watermelons are fairly similar in composition to the muskmelon family. However, they have more water (93 per cent) and much less vitamin C. They are usually considered to be a good source of vitamin A and iron since one usually eats larger pieces.

So, eat all the cantaloupe you want. It is a superior food and an important member of the Four Food Groups. Use it for breakfast, or for snack items, in salads, as an appetizer for dinner, or for dessert — cantaloupe with a scoop of ice cream in the center.

More Almonds Meet Demands

To provide consumers with more almonds, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is making 66 percent of California's 1972-73 almond crop available to domestic markets. Last September, 55 percent had been designated for domestic demand—with the remainder used for export sale. But the amount for U. S. sale has been increased by 11 percent to meet demand.

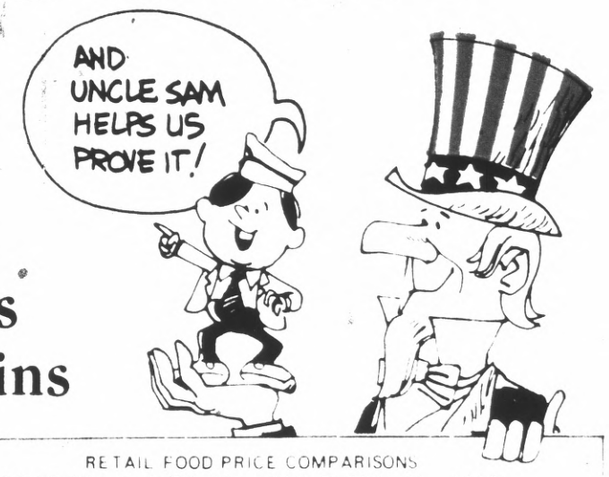
Food costs less at Mayfair!



Uncle Sam helps us prove that food cost less at Mayfair last week than at 7 other top chains

Again last week, we compared food prices with the major supermarkets in this area.

"Specials", "total discount", and most other kinds of prices were compared. In this survey of June 22 to 27, Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than seven other top supermarket chains'.

To try to be fair, the comparisons were again with Uncle Sam's list, the same full list of items that the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, uses every month to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

These comparisons show you could have saved from $3.88 to $7.64 on the $40 to $60 worth of basic foods in this list.

With the high cost of living these days, really, can you afford not to buy your food at Mayfair?

Brelsford Among Leaders

DC Playgrounds Are Busy With First Week Activities

The 1973 summer playground program sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department and the Jefferson Elementary School District is underway with activities for boys and girls seven years of age and older.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN playground plans to celebrate the holiday with a barbeque on July 3 at 1:30 p.m. Various games will include a watermelon eating contest.

Signups are being taken at the playground for broom hockey and one-on-one basketball.

DANIEL WEBSTER playground will open its broom hockey season next Friday at Westmoor Park. The Webster Blades will be led by George Martin, Mike Perry, Tony Ricci and Ron Spinetti, with hopes of capturing the city title this year.

A coed softball league is being formed as well as a boys' strikeout league. All interested persons should see the recreation leader at Daniel Webster.

A barbecue will be Friday and a watermelon eating contest is planned for the near future.

THE SUMMER program is off to a good start at Franklin D. Roosevelt playground with lots of fun and games everyday. A carroms tournament is being planned for the next couple of weeks.

Once again this summer, Fridays at 12 noon will be the time for weekly barbecue. It's bring your own food and drinks, with all invited.

Another bring-your-own-thing barbecue is planned for this Friday to be followed by a softball game at Jefferson School playground.

AT JUNIPERO SERRA for a dime on Mondays at 12:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room, movies will be shown. On Tuesdays at 11:15 a.m. cartoons will be the main attraction. Thursdays is for all-day trips to many of the Bay Area's recreational facilities. Friday is double feature day where for a dime arts and crafts will be taught at 10 a.m. and immediately following at 11:15 a.m. stories will be read.

There will be a variety everyday of recreational activities for all ages.

OLYMPIA SCHOOL is planning an exciting summer program, with children invited to join one of the kickball teams. League play will be each Monday.

A strikeout tournament will be soon with cofavorites John Kim and George VanDerhoff likely to place well.

On the carroms board, Susan and Joanne Savage have been winning most games. Rick Lauser and Jim Savage have been running away with the boys' games.

PALISADES PARK summer resort overlooking the Pacific will feature chess instruction for the first in the series of chess tournaments. In the planning stages are a softball series with Vista Mar and a barbecue at Thornton State Beach.

Kickball, softball and a barbecue highlighted the first week of summer at Vista Grande School. Carlos Pinnace, James Keys and Marcella Weatherbee proved to be the big guns in the daily kickball games while Andrew Weatherbee and Nancy Buitrago were the big sluggers in softball.

Weekly activities at Vista Grande are: arts and crafts, Mondays at 1 p.m.; storytelling, Thursdays at 10:15 a.m. and cartoons Fridays at 2:15 p.m.

THE FIRST WEEK OF the summer recreation program at Vista Mar was really a whole lot of fun for everyone. Teams are now being formed at Vista Mar for broom hockey, high school softball and signup sheets are out for tennis, track, field and chess. There is an improvised tennis facility at Vista Mar.

A boys vs girls softball game highlighted the first week of the summer program at Westlake Park. The boys finally ended up winners 8-4, but the girls played well. The girls' stars included Renee Baldocchi, Lisa Patt, Cindy Silverthorne, Laurie Phillips, Jackie Phillips, Kathy Cunnie and Sandy Arata.

Upcoming events in future weeks include a ping-pong tournament and a boys basketball clinic.

WESTLAKE SCHOOL for activities have been made for both boys and girls. On Tuesdays they will go to some place in the Bay Area which usually includes swimming. Each Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. there will be a barbecue with each child bringing a favorite bite to cook. To assist with the cooking will be Kirk Carrillo and Ken Perotti, Westlake's own chefs.

To burn off the calories from lunch, there will be a softball game with star players Andy Maccagno, Mitch Gegich, Vince Rovai, Robert Rovai and Joey Lombardo.

Thursdays at 12:30 p.m. the arts and crafts lady will visit, bringing with her objects to create. The weekends with movies on Friday at 12:30 p.m., with the cost 10 cents.

The summer program started off by crowning its first "Athlete of the Week" for the summer program. The park's first winner of this award was Jack Dorn for his power hitting and slick fielding in the many softball games of the first week. Besides Dorn, other leading homerun hitters were Steve Botta, Jim Ocampo, Tino Donaire, Tom Mederos and Pat Regan. Others playing softball and contributing to their team efforts were Clark Bloom, Craig Bloom, Bill Powers, Scott Bernard, Mike Botta, Ramon Balagot, Mike Banks, Dave Gunter, Kyron Milton and Dietz Balagot.

The park also had its first big strikeout game of the summer. Balagot pitched three strong shut-out innings and also contributed a long homerun over the left field fence.

Cosell Cudgels Credulity, Kubek Can't Cope With AL's DH Dilemma

By LE PACINI

One of the biggest disappointments of the current baseball season was Tony Kubek's inability to cope with Howard Cosell's assessment of the designated hitter rule, during the recent Monday night televised baseball game between Boston and Detroit.

Cosell kept intimidating Kubek by pontifically spouting about more homeruns being hit in the SH's place in the batting order and about all the old hitters getting new life in the game, and Kubek could retaliate only with vague mumblings about how he feels the DH rule still "takes something away from the strategy."

It would have taken no homework on Kubek's part to reply to Howard's argument about new life for old hitters by reminding him of the new and old 17 pitchers who are now on minor league rosters who would have been on major league rosters had their place not been taken by rejuvenated "old hitters." So, no matter how Cosell seemed to distort the picture, it is not true that more people have found big league work because of the DH rule.

HAD KUBEK done some statistical homework he could have countered Cosell with the following facts:

1. The American League is averaging essentially only one-half a run per game more than it has in the recent past.

2. The National League also is averaging about one-half more per game this year, without the DH rule.

3. As famed baseball analyst Leonard Koppett pointed out in a recent Sporting News column, since in almost every important situation a pinch-hitter is used for a pitcher, anyway, that slot in the batting order has never been quite as hopeless as it has appeared to be, since only pitchers' hitting statistics are used to compare with the DH slot in the statistical analyses now being offered by the AL office.

In other words, there is in reality an even slighter margin of difference in offense in that slot than there appears to be.

4. As Koppett also points out, there are more shutouts being pitched in the AL this year coming, in fact, at one of the highest rates in baseball history than in the NL. As Koppett rightly comments, "A shutout has a special relation to the designated-hitter rule, insofar as the rule is intended to increase scoring . . . if a team fails to score at all, the designated hitter could not have affected its scoring total in that game. Even with nine pitchers going to bat a team can't score less than zero."

AND NOW, with all of these facts in, the one big fact yet to be considered is that the National League is still getting more hits, hitting more homeruns and scoring more runs than the American League.

What all of this seems to indicate is that the real problem in

The Daly City Recreation Department's Adult Slow Pitch Softball Leagues are heading for their respective conclusions with some exciting finishes in the making.

"B" LEAGUE WEST — The Emanons, led by the fine hitting of Frank Bullwinkle, Frank Monteleone, Ed Shaffer and Rich Monteleone and some clutch defense, squeaked by both Canco and the Turf Club 4-3 and 11-9 to secure a tie for first place with Nestle. The "Crunchers" earned their playoff berth by downing Thunder 8-6 and the Country Clubbers 7-2, throwing the league into yet another week to decide the championship.

Melody Toyota continued its winning ways by defeating Cordero Chevrolet 12-6, Ray Moore's three-run homer being the deciding factor. In other games, World of Carpets pulled the rug out from under the B of A Vets 14-12. Bill Townsend supplied the muscle for the victors with two homers. French A.C. pummeled I.R.S. 34-11 while Melody Toyota rolled over the B of A Rookies 17-2 behind the hitting of Jess Myers, Rich Virgil, Dan Fodrini and the pitching of Hector "Blooper" Gonzales.

The Ducks were led by the slugging of John Moran and the fine defense of Ron Petrocchi and Charlie Greathouse. Bayshore Baptist took two from the Hornets and J.C. Penney 17-8 and 11-4 with li and Jim Beck. good team hitting and the pitching of "Underhanded" McFarland. BIG LEAGUE — As the last week of competition approaches three teams, the Brewers, Morgan's Marauders and Milo's Misfits are tied for first place, therefore almost insuring a hectic finish and possible playoff. In last week's games two of these teams met with Milo's Misfits squeezing by the Marauders 6-5. Excellent defense by Milo's supplied the margin as Joe Colorado, Mike Guerrero and Bill Chavez came up with big plays to crush numerous Marauder rallies.

In a pitching duel, Milo's Misfits also defeated the Misfits 1-0 as Joe Colorado scored the game's only run on the strength of Rippy Talavera's single.

Bruno Hunch Cage July 9

Starting July 9 the San Bruno Recreation Department will sponsor its second annual three-man hunch basketball tournament, at the War Memorial Recreation Center. There will be a dollar fee per person if participants are not already in the teen club.

More than 15 teams are expected. Trophies will be awarded to the first three places.

The tournament should last the rest of July and playoffs probably will be in early August. The program is run by recreation leaders Paul Accinelli and Jim Beck.

Le Pacini Can't Cope

the American League is that it doesn't have the hitters the National League has and that the best way to cure its lack of offense is not to change basic rules but to beef up its scouting system and loosen its purse strings for better procurement and development.

ALMOST EVERY pitcher who comes over from the AL to the NL says the big difference is that in the American League they can relax when they hit the seventh spot in the batting order, but that the NL has hitters in the seventh and eighth spots who can "murder you."

Kubek's virtual ignorance of the above facts didn't surprise us in the least. We have discovered, over the years, that in fact some of the people most ignorant about the finer, more subtle points of baseball are baseball players, or ex-players. They seldom know much more about statistics other than their own personal statistics and often have no knowledge of the history of the game in which they make or made their living.

Perhaps this is why we hear so many players saying that they love to play the game but wouldn't pay to watch it. They are bored watching it because they don't really understand the finer points of the game.

WHY DO so many know so little about a game they have played since childhood and at which they have made their livelihood? Very possibly because they have been so busy perfecting their own individual skills, because in modern baseball there are so many assistant coaches and special instructors who do their thinking for them that they have never HAD to know more than that which directly concerns their own little world.

This is perhaps why the best managers and coaches are often men who had dismal careers on the field. To compensate for their lack of physical skills they observed more diligently, thought more deeply, exercised their brains more thoroughly, investigated their business more seriously.

MISCELLANY: If you can't figure the Giants, suppose you were a Cincinnati fan. How would you figure them to be losing? And particularly the WAY they're losing—by not hitting. How do you figure a fine hitting team batting between 235-240 all year, putting them near the bottom of the NL in batting; or for most of the year standing around sixth in the league in both homeruns and runs scored?

We hope the fine young prospects of both the Giants and Dodgers last a long time, because at the moment their rosters at Phoenix and Albuquerque, their top farm teams, seem to be with a few exceptions, nearly depleted of any real talent. The reason is that their strong farm teams of last year and-or the year before, are now virtually making up the heart of their respective varsity rosters.

Phoenix does have a pretty good hitting catcher in Jake Brown and a couple of promising pitchers in John D'Acquisto and Frank Riccelli and the Dodgers have an infielder - outfielder-DH named Royster who seems to be able to hit the ball, but that's about it for both clubs.

If any of you are acquainted with a peanut vendor named Danny who has peddled peanuts at every stadium in the Bay Area for what seems like and may very well be half a century, then pick up a copy of June's San Francisco Magazine, because Danny (full name, Daniel McCabe) is the magazine's June cover boy.

TAG END: The NFL Players Association produced some interesting and perhaps even strange wording last week in their rejection of a potential owner-imposed drug program which would include urinalysis as a deterrent to drug usage.

The player resolution read, in part, that the association "expresses deep concern and rejects proposals which would invade the privacy of gifted athletes and further violate individual rights and freedoms enjoyed by other citizens. . . ."

The key word there is "gifted," as in "gifted athletes."

We are wondering if this means that the players (a) think it is all right for just fair players to have their urine tested, or if (b) all professional football players are "gifted" athletes.

If the interpretation falls under (a) then it seems to us that the players' association has revealed itself as a very intolerant, undemocratic body. If the interpretation falls under (b), then the association has definite problems in the area of inflated egos and superiority complexes.

If the interpretation falls under neither heading but was just a case of poor written expression, then the association is guilty of hiring inarticulate dumb-dumbs to represent them and for that offense deserve to have their urine supply tapped.

Channing in Women's Loop Lead

The Women's Summer Slow Pitch League, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, saw some real action in the fourth round of play at Westlake Park-South Diamond.

The Righteously Together Women squeezed through to hold off a strong attempt by the Tippy's team, 12-11. The R. T. Women drew most of their runs from homers by Pat Cross, Mavis Hachett, Chris Redmond and Cathy Redmond. In the fifth inning the score was tied until Mary Lou Sunsin connected for one RBI. The inning run was driven in by Estelle Torrez when she hit her only RBI.

Tippy's strong offense was sparked by Rosita Germano who scored three runs followed by Sandi Tosti with two.

Having had an earlier bad season, Tippy's seems to be putting together an offensive and defensive strategy that is paying off.

Coach Bill De Lucchi guided his team through its first real game.

Channing Fund continued to hold first place with a 14-3 win over Byrds' Trucking. Doreen Daveri pitched a four-hitter and also connected for a triple.

Runs were abundant with Sherry Garner, Karen Ward, Linda Harmon and Claire Anderson each scoring two. The weak offense of Byrds' Trucking saw only four hits, with the three runs scored by Shiela Colombana, Linda Tanksley and Dora Muldow.

Two weeks remain in the season. All games are played at Westlake Park-South diamond at 1 and 2:40 p.m.

Current league standings are Channing Fund, first; R. T. Women and Byrd's Trucking, second; and Tippy's Team, third.

Bruno Funds To Be Expended

San Bruno's federal revenue sharing funds — in the amount of $2,200 will be used to construct a sidewalk on the north side of San Bruno Avenue between upper Crestmoor Drive and Glenview Drive.

The land, owned by the city, is trod frequently by youngsters who attend school in that area. The sidewalk will cover 676 feet, be 3-foot wide with 33 feet of curb and gutter.

Stull Bill's Impact on S.C. Schools

Business procedures caught up with California's schools this year with passage of the controversial Stull Bill.

San Carlos School District trustees have mulled over implications of the complex bill for the past year and last night took a look at a thick draft intended to be guidelines for evaluating district personnel.

Basically, the procedure is familiar in business and is most commonly termed the "job description-and-evaluation" cycle.

Taking a leaf from business, school trustees had directed Administrative Assistant Roger Wilder to meet with staff members and come up with an evaluative procedure which would meet the requirements of the Stull Bill.

For teachers and administrators, the cycle begins with a mutually agreed-upon "standards of performance agreement". This includes, trustees learned, performance objectives which should be written by the evaluatee. Then, for probationary teachers, two evaluations are to be given during the school year, while one is all that is required for tenured teachers.

A final evaluation report is written by the evaluator, and is signed by the evaluatee to indicate that he has read it.

School District Chairwoman Elvira Monroe suggested that provision also be made so that the persons evaluated could make additional comments of their own.

Noting that the intention was to make the year-long program a "team effort", Superintendent Nelson Burdett said he felt the three evaluative forms "take the positive approach on showing how an employee can improve rather than simply giving criticism".

Trustees determined to study the lengthy assessment and evaluation procedures and agreed to take final action on the matter in September, just in time for them to be implemented in the 1973-74 school year.

Purposes of the evaluative procedure, according to the draft guidelines, are to facilitate the improving of instruction, to provide a means for rewarding excellence and to establish professional standards of performance with the emphasis on student and staff success.

LAFCO Hearing Restraint Ends

Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn today lifted a temporary order restraining the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) from conducting a public hearing to determine whether five cities can withdraw from the San Mateo County Harbor District.

Cohn said Presiding Judge G. Brooks Ice probably didn't have the authority to grant it in the first place.

Nonetheless, Cohn gave James Dennis, attorney for the Harbor District, six days to prepare legal points and authorities showing that Cohn has the authority to prevent the public hearing.

"I suspect you won't find too much," the judge told Dennis.

Cohn repeated several times that he doubts that he has the authority to prevent the public hearing.

At one point, the judge told Dennis, "Make your arguments to LAFCO. They may decide you're dead right."

Dennis argued that LAFCO must first make certain determinations, such as sphere of influences, before it can hold its public hearing.

But Lemuel Summey of the District Attorney's office, representing LAFCO, called Dennis' attempt for an order preventing the hearing "premature," adding that LAFCO may make decisions consistent with the Harbor District's position.

The cities, Millbrae, Menlo Park, Woodside, Portola Valley and Atherton, contend that their citizens would not benefit from the $10.2 million Pillar Point Harbor Project. It's LAFCO's decision on the question. Cohn will hear Dennis' arguments July 12.

Boy Drowns In Recreation Swim Pool

Henry "Joey" Jackson was sure he could swim.

He had always wanted to get into the deep end of a pool.

Tuesday he had the chance. And the results were tragic.

Joey, 7, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Jackson Jr., of San Bruno, drowned during an outing sponsored by his special school.

The victim was one of about 30 youngsters who customarily spend one hour each Tuesday and Thursday at the pool as part of the San Mateo County Program for Dysphasic Children which operates this summer out of Coolidge School in Burlingame.

According to combined reports from the San Mateo Recreation Department and the city's police department, the boy apparently left a dressing room and entered the pool without anyone in authority seeing him.

Dennis Alexander, who works with the children and was reportedly in charge of the boys' locker room Tuesday, said he had cleared the pool of youngsters shortly before noon.

He said he was certain that the victim had left the pool, gone into the locker room and sat down. But the boy apparently went back outside and returned to the water.

Noticing that the boy was missing from his group, Alexander went outside, leaped into the pool and spotted the body of the boy at the deep end.

Alexander brought the victim out of the water and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was attempted by pool attendant Al Ford of the recreation department. According to a spokesman for the department, Ford was not officially on duty at the time of the incident.

Another member of the program's party went outside into the street and hailed a passing policeman, Conrad Caines.

With Ford continuing to attempt to revive the boy, the youngster was rushed in the police car to Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo where further attempts to revive him failed.

At 12:38 p.m., the boy was pronounced dead.

William Morgan, the principal in charge of the program at Coolidge, said this morning that Joey did not know how to swim — but he thought he did.

"He always wanted to get into the deep water," Morgan said, "but I don't think he had a real concept of the depth of the water."

All of the youngsters in the program have some degree of a speech and language disorder and others, like Joey, have other neurological difficulties as well.

Morgan said there were a total of 16 program officials and volunteer adult aides on the scene with the children at King Center on Tuesday.

According to Mrs. Jackson, Joey has one brother, Christopher. She said funeral services will be held sometime this week from the Chapel of the Highlands in Millbrae.
